ASQUITH PRESENTS HOMERULE MEASURE

Parliament Galleries Are Thronged as the Premier Outlines Bill Destined to Be Ireland's Constitution. Law Interrupts Asquith.

LONDON, April 11.—Premier Asquith today presented the Home Rule bill to Parliament.

The tensest excitement prevailed in the House, which was packed, many foreign diplomats and scores of women being present.

In detailing the provisions of the autonomy measure which is destined to be Ireland's constitution, the Premier said:

"The Irish Parliament will not be allowed to endow any religion, impose any religious tests or interfere with the validity of mixed marriages. Nor shall religious disability effect the appointment of Lord Lieutenants, who will hold office for terms of ten years.

"The Senate will be composed of forty members, and the two houses will sit together. Ulster's representation will be fifty-nine representatives.

"The members of the Senate will be nominated in the first instance by imperial Parliament and will be retired in rotation.

"The lower house will be called the House of Representatives, and shall consist of 164 members, elected by the people.

$10,000,000 Deficit.

"All taxes will be paid direct to the imperial exchequer. As the Irish revenue of the coming year is estimated at $50,000,000 and the expenditures are estimated at $60,000,000, the deficit will not be excessive. Money for the payment of Irish officials will be advanced yearly from the imperial to the Irish exchequer.

"Parliament will be empowered to impose Irish taxation, devise new taxes or reduce such revenues, and it will have a free hand regarding excise duties, but it will not be able to add any imperial duty on customs."

That a new and bigger program than has ever before been attempted by the British government is under contemplation was revealed when the Premier said:

"Irish home rule is the first step only in a larger and more comprehensive scheme of evolution in the United Kingdom and the empire. But Ireland's claim for attention comes first and must be dealt with separately. Local interests must be delegated to local government for management.

"The Imperial government will not surrender supreme authority. That is the cardinal principle of this bill. But it will confer real autonomy regarding Irish affairs. There will be a Parliament con-

Finance Board Sidesteps in Reply on Building Dept. Investigation

Commissioners in Letter to Mayor Give No Information About When Report Will Be Given Out.

The Finance Commission, which was requested by Mayor Fitzgerald recently to explain the protracted delay in the issuance of a report of the building department, today sent a letter to Mayor Fitzgerald in which they carefully sidestep answering the main question of the efficiency of the building department under Commissioner Arthur G. Everett.

The commission points out that the Mayor asked several questions, and that two of these have already been answered, but they give no information as to when the general report upon the department covering every detail will be ready for publication.

It was nearly six months ago that the Mayor requested the commission to make an investigation. This request followed the collapse of a building at the corner of Hanover and Battery strets on November 1.

Asked today when the full report would be ready, Secretary John C. L. Dowling replied that the preliminary draft covering the investigation of the experts would be given to the commission at the next meeting of the body on next Tuesday. He said that the full report would follow very soon.

In today's letter the commission announces that it approves the schedule of fees submitted by Mayor Fitzgerald for the building department. The commission states that they are reasonable.

The commission believes that the amount recommended by the Mayor for the building department appropriation for the year 1912, namely, $126,200, will be sufficient to meet the ordinary needs of the department and to pay the salaries of the additional inspectors required. They approve of the Mayor's suggestion that the fees of the building department be collected by the city's collecting department rather than have the fees collected by the building department and the inspectors paid from the revenues derived.

Mother's Efforts Win Son Freedom

She Carries to Charlestown Pardon for Augustus Williams, Serving Six-Year Term for Robbery.

A mother's long fight for the liberty of her son was rewarded today when she carried to the Charlestown State Prison a paper that freed Augustus Williams, who had served three years of a six-year sentence for robbery.

The boy is only nineteen. Practically all the time he has been behind the bars his mother has worked for his freedom. When the young man stepped from his cell, free, today, his mother threw her arms about his neck and covered his face with kisses. Tears streamed down the faces of both. They left the prison together and the young man proposes to start over again.

The Governor and Executive Council granted the pardon. When the Governor signed it today he handed it to the mother, who hurried to Charlestown, and her boy was freed.

Williams and William McRae, an older boy, three years ago entered the little grocery store of Charlotte M. Murdock, an elderly woman of Chelsea, and Williams placed a revolver to her head while McRae chloroformed her. Then they robbed the woman of $10.

Mrs. Murdock went to the executive chamber to oppose the pardon, but upon the presentation of the facts regarding Williams, joined in requesting it.

Easter Hat Pin Fatal to 16-Year-Old Girl

Alice Standley of Beverly Dies from Blood-Poisoning Following Accident.

BEVERLY, April 11.—Alice Standley, the sixteen-year-old girl who accidentally stuck a hat pin in her nose last Sunday morning while preparing to go to an Easter party, is dead at her home on Essex street, this city, from blood poisoning. She died at the Beverly Hospital today. She was a member of the graduating class of the Beverly High School.

Mrs. Eddy's Home to Be Sold for Taxes

CONCORD, N. H., April 11.—Pleasant View, the Concord home of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of Christian Science, is to be sold on May 23 for taxes. The levy amounted to $417, a sum which Henry M. Baker, one of the executors of Mrs. Eddy's estate, considered unjust and extortionate.

It was at Pleasant View Mrs. Eddy passed many years of her life and wrote several of her books. The mansion is an old-fashioned frame structure, commanding a fine view of the surrounding country. It was there Mrs. Eddy addressed thousands of Christian Scientists who made pilgrimages to her home.

RED SOX BATTLE WITH YANKEES

AMERICAN LEAGUE PARK, New York, April 11.—Fifteen thousand "fans" accorded the Yankees and Red Sox an enthusiastic greeting here this afternoon when the teams lined up in the opening game of the season. Long before the gates opened the lines had formed in front of the entrance and at 1:45 the ticket windows opened and the crowd rushed in eagerly scrambling for seats.

From then on there was a steady stream of "fans" swarming into the grounds. It was a typical baseball crowd. There were the usual noisy rooters with rattles and cowbells. There were politicians by the score and pretty women by the hundred.

The weather conditions were ideal. Clear skies and bright sunshine prevailed. the park had been set in holiday attire and presented a pretty picture. Flags fluttered and bunting waved everywhere about the big green grand stand. the field was also in perfect condition.

The Yankee players looked neat and nifty in their new uniforms, which are white with a fine black pin stripe. The shirts are monogramed "N. Y." on the left breast. The caps are white with the monogram "N. Y." in blue letters, and the stockings of blue and maroon stripe.

There was a tumultuous cheer when the players took the field. The old players were instantly recognized by the fans and greeted like long lost friends. Wolverton and Chase in particular were given a rousing reception.

There was much eagerness to see the new Yankee leader, about whom they had heard so much. The new chief had to doff his cap time and again in answer to the cheers. Jake Stahl and his Red Sox warriors were also greeted royally.

Supreme Court Justice Everett B. McCall inaugurated the season by throwing out the first ball. Manager Wolverton was presented with a silver cup, a token of esteem from the "fans" of Oakland, Calif., where he managed a team for the past two years.

Tramps Rob Man Hurled From Auto

North Attleboro Chauffeur Thrown Out and Stunned, Loses Money and Shoes.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, April 11.—J. L. Bacon, a chauffeur, reached here to-day cut and bruised after having been thrown out of his machine between Foxboro and Walpole and robbed as he lay unconscious in the road. The thieves, it is believed, were tramps. They took about $35 Bacon had, and his shoes and stockings. He was on his way to Providence when his steering gear broke and he was hurled out. When he recovered consciousness he was almost frozen, but managed to climb on a freight train and made his way to Mansfield.

Last Word by Boston Leaders

By JAKE STAHL.

Manager of the Red Sox.

I believe we are a lot stronger than we were in 1911. Our pitchers all seem to be in good shape, we have a fine lot of backstops, and the infield is working fine. The outfield is second to none. We fear no club, and are out to make a record.

By JOHN KLING.

Manager of the Pilgrims.

We are out to better our position materially over last year. The club is stronger in two outfield positions and two of the infield, and much better off in the matter of pitchers. We are out to win, first, last and all the time.

EVERYBODY'S doing it. Doing what? Going to the ball game, of course. What ball game? The Boston Pilgrims and the Philadelphia Quakers. Pilgrims and Quakers ought to make a smashing combination. They meet this afternoon at the Walpole Street Baseball Grounds, in the first Boston baseball game of 1912.

Here are the main facts of the great opening of the National League season here.

Teams—Boston and Philadelphia.

Place—Walpole street grounds. Take a subway car. Or, if you live in the suburbs, ask the conductor.

Time—3 o'clock.

Probable batteries — Alexander, pitcher, and Dooin, catcher, for Philadelphia. Tyler or Perdue, pitcher, and Kling, catcher, for Boston.

This ought to be the greatest opening day the Boston Nationals have had in years. They have returned from their training trip in better form than they have shown in a long time. The Walpole street grounds have been re-arranged so that they will now seat 14,127 "fans." The playing space is larger than it was, although the centre field district is actually smaller. The diamond has been laid out so that it is a longer distance from the stands than it was a year ago, and National League "fans" will barely recognise the new place. All of the stands have been newly painted, even the fences look new, and James E. Gaffney, the new owner of the Boston Pilgrims, had the bases laid out with marble dust yesterday so that the base lines ought to be lightning fast for the opening game, or soon after.

Everything New for the Pilgrims.

The Pilgrims go into today's game with a new manager—Johnny Kling. They have a new owner, and a new president—John Montgomery Ward—who, more than twenty years ago, was the crack shortstop of the world champion New York Giants, and leader in the Brotherhood agitation, which reorganized and reformed big league baseball. Ward and Kling have been teaching their charges "inside baseball" more than they were ever taught before, and they ought to show it in this season's games.

Kling had all his men out on the Walpole street diamond yesterday, and this morning they were joined by the Phillies, whom many experts pick as the probable winners of this year's National League pennant. Charley Dooin came over today with his pets and had them out for the first preliminary practice this morning. He selected Alexander as his probable pitcher—Alexander, the great—who, next to Christy Mathewson is counted the most able twirler in the National League. He picks Chalmers as a possible alternative, and declared that he would catch, himself.

"Noisy John" Kling—who is called "Noisy John" because he is about the mildest spoken individual imaginable—decided to do Boston's catching, of course. He decided that either George Tyler or "Hub" Perdue would do the pitching. Tyler is the southpaw twirler who showed promising signs last year, but who has improved wonderfully in the Spring training. "Hub" Perdue, the Gallatin farmer, is a right-hander and is Kling's best offering in the pitching department just now.

Tyler to Twirl the Opening Game.

Tyler has a wonderful curve ball, and, although a youngster, has learned how to use it. He is in exceptionally good trim; in fact, in better condition than any other of Kling's port-siders. "Hub" Perdue is Kling's mainstay in the pitching department just now. The Boston Nationals believe that "Hub" is one of the best half dozen twirlers in the big league. He is as strong as an ox, knows how to pitch and has the "stuff" to deliver. Nobody knows just how good Perdue is since he had an operation on his arm, removing a splintered bone, last Winter. He is ac-

WORLD SHOCKED BY UNFOUNDED REPORT OF THE PONTIFF'S DEMISE

Early Dispatches Saying That Pius X. Had Passed Away Are Positively Denied by the Vatican Authorities.

ROME, APRIL 11—8 P. M.—POPE PIUS IS NOT DEAD.

LONDON, April 11.—Despite denials from Rome that the Pope was dead, the report persisted here this evening. There was a rumor that a secret announcement had been transmitted to all the church dignitaries throughout the world announcing the Pontiff's death.

Latest advices from Rome deny the report that the Pope is dead.

News that Pius X. had passed away was flashed by cable today to all the press agencies of the world. The information was sent first to London, where it was printed in extras rushed from all the leading dailies, and then cabled to every city in the newspaper world.

The cables from London had scarcely reached America when another cable to the same effect came from Madrid, the latter adding that Monsignor Vico, the papal nuncio at Madrid, had received a message from Rome announcing the event of the Pope's death as having occurred at 5 o'clock this morning.

Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul and the Bishop of the diocese of Columbus, O., received similar messages, the latter so apparently authentic that the church bells in Columbus were tolled by order of the Bishop.

REPORTS WERE REGARDED AS AUTHENTIC.

Every daily newspaper on both hemispheres treated the messages as authentic, so detailed were all the features.

One of the first dispatches was from Madrid. It said that a private dispatch from Rome, which had been confirmed at the nunciature, announced the death of the Pope.

Other dispatches sent by the Associated Press and other news agencies seemed to confirm the news.

DEATH BULLETINED BY ALL BOSTON PAPERS.

In front of all of the Boston newspapers bulletins were displayed containing the report that the Pope was dead.

All of the Boston evening newspapers, including the Boston AMERICAN, issued extras with the report of the Pope's death.

Later the following dispatch was received by the AMERICAN from Rome:

"There is no truth in the report that the Pope is dead."

The AMERICAN received the following cable from Paris:

"After getting into direct communication with the Vatican today, Catholic dignitaries here declared there was no basis for the report that Pius X. had died. They said they were unable to even guess where such a report had started."

DENIED EMPHATICALLY BY THE VATICAN.

The following cable was later received from Rome, via Paris:

"The Vatican unqualifiedly denies the report that the Pope is dead."

Following are samples of some of the dispatches received by the AMERICAN which seemed to confirm the news that the Pope was dead:

"MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 11.—Father T. E. Cullen of the Catholic church in this city today told the Daily News that Archbishop John Ireland at St. Paul had notified him of the Pope's death. The archbishop, he said, had received a private cablegram from Rome to this effect."

"COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—Bishop Hartley said today that he had received private information telling of the death of Pope Pius X. All Catholic church bells in the city were ordered tolled for half an hour."

Rev. Father Sullivan, secretary of Cardinal O'Connell, said this afternoon:

"We have the Associated Press dispatch about the death of Pope Pius X.

"We have also received word that the Pope is not dead."

'FEARFUL BLOW TO PRESIDENT'

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Not only did the result of the Illinois primary flatten the Wilson boom completely, but it has set Republicans seriously to thinking about a substitute for Mr. Taft as a G. O. P. standard bearer.

It is now conceded on all sides that Mr. Taft has no chance whatever of re-election. His defeat in Illinois, where he turned for help to Lorimer, has proved that even the corporations cannot help him. Indeed, his alliances with the interests that Lorimer represents undoubtedly added to the overwhelming vote by which he was repudiated.

Senator Cullom admits his vote for Lorimer killed his chance of re-election to the Senate. Mr. Taft probably has discovered by this time that being tarred with the Lorimer stick is no more hopeful to a Presidential candidate than it is to a Senatorial candidate.

"Fearful Blow" to President.

The gloom that pervades the White House is deep and dark and purple. Two Cabinet members admitted that the news from Illinois had been a "fearful blow" to the President.

Mr. Taft himself is said to be in one of his black humors. He cannot have failed to hear the talk going round as to his successor as a candidate. He is determined to stay in the game, and as he knows little of real politics he is at a loss as to how he shall defend himself when the attack from inside his own faction begins.

It is certain that thus far he has not been asked to withdraw from the race. But the demand will come with one more such slap as that of the Illinois Republicans.

Already the party leaders are talking about a compromise candidate. The murmur about Borah that was heard a month ago has risen to a buzz, and may grow audible at the White House almost any day.

Borah's Harmony Qualifications.

Borah has the confidence of the progressives, though he is reactionary on enough issues to satisfy the people that are behind Taft. He is one of the most aggressive opponents of the recall of judges.

It is believed he would get all the support that is now behind Taft, and that he would be acceptable to enough progressives to assure him the nomination.

His State, Idaho, has only eight votes in the Electoral College, so his election would be by no means as easy as his nomination.

Keeping Taft in the fight means surely that the Progressives will not vote the Republican ticket in the Fall. Taft has aroused deep bitterness among them by his almost every official act. Moreover, his manager, McKinley, in the methods he has employed in counting delegates, has succeeded in arousing an enmity that nothing can remove.

The Taft-McKinley club that was meant for Roosevelt hit every Progressive East and West, and there can be no compromise save by putting both Taft and McKinley out of the running

Setting Aside of Taft.

The setting aside of Mr. Taft even at this stage of the proceedings is not as difficult as it looks. The New York delegates will go to Chicago tied up with nothing stronger than a recommendation. The astute Penrose would not permit the President's name to be put on the primary ticket in Pennsylvania. Penrose wanted to be sure to be able to send his delegates where he chooses.

The solid South will be broken by a defection in North Carolina, and the pitiful collection of steam rolled officeholders from other Southern State will jump off the Taft wagon like rats if they think there is danger of his defeat.

Against the instructed Taft delegates will be a howling crowd of Roosevelt boosters from the West, the fifty-eight delegates from Illinois and the great crowd of Chicagoans, who helped to defeat Taft at the primary polls. The latter will not be delegates, but they will be in Chicago when the convention is held, and no politician underrates the effect of a hostile crowd in a convention city.

Roosevelt Men Jubilant.

The Roosevelt people are loudly claiming they have nominated their man. The Taft managers admit they were staggered by the Illinois result, but still claim enough delegates to nominate. They, however, are the people who are doing most of the compromise candidate talk, and when a candidate's friends begin to talk about ditching him it is high time for the candidate to get scared.

There is no doubt that all Mr. Taft's troubles arise from his sudden turning away from the progressives to the reactionaries. The alliance he made with Lorimer helped to beat him in Illinois. But his alliance with Crane, Penrose, Smoot and every trust representative in the Senate had already inaugurated his unpopularity. If he is nominated he will be nominated by the trusts and their money. But even the trusts and their money cannot elect him.

CAT'S MEWS WARN MAN OF FIRE PERIL

The mewing of his cat awoke John Vorsarkian at 4:20 a. m. today in time for him to make his escape from his home at No. 722 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, which was on fire. Asleep in the same house was Mrs. Sarah Cadian, whom the firemen found unconscious from smoke and slightly burned. She was carried down a ladder and taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital. The damage to the building was $1,000.

MELODRAMA AT THE PLYMOUTH

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

After all, there is nothing quite so satisfying as good old-fashioned melodrama—providing, of course, it is in proper tune.

Which is doubtless why "Alias Jimmy Valentine," free from gun, powder and rough work, but rich in the subdued thrills and terrifying situations, takes on all comers and sends them away happy in the thought that virtue will find its own reward.

It would indeed be senseless to bestow too serious criticism upon "Alias Jimmy Valentine," which is giving the Plymouth Theatre a taste of real prosperity. With two years to its credit in New York, and similar, though less expensive, experience in Chicago, it seems as if perhaps we had better take everybody's word for it that the piece is an entertainment of rare quality.

What everybody agrees upon certainly carries an element of truth. Anyway, I liked the play immensely, for it gave me nearly three hours of just the kind of melodrama that makes things lively, without mussing up the furniture.

From Prison to Bank.

Paul Armstrong, whose dramatic thoughts have recently taken a decided turn for the shady side of life, gives you a gentlemanly burglar for a hero in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and, as played by H. B. Warner, there is a world of sympathy for the character.

Whether the vicious types that Mr. Armstrong has put into his play are true pictures of dwellers at Sing Sing we care not—and we hope not. But to the audience at the Plymouth they are something new, at least.

Crime and romance are not popularly supposed to walk hand in hand, but Jimmy's doleful prison days were brightened by a sweet young thing who believed him honest.

Naturally this touched his emotions, and he promised to go straight forever. Forever is a long time, but Jimmy kept his word—under some difficulties, to be sure.

While you were certain that Jimmy and Rose Lane would be seen together later, you were hardly prepared to have the boy given employment in father Lane's bank. This, of course, was after Jimmy's pardon from Sing Sing.

Old Case Is Brought Up.

Jimmy's effort to remain honest improved his looks and his position, for when Doyle, the detective, trailed him to the Lane banking house three years later, he was toiling secretly under the name of Lee Randall.

Just before the detective arrived Jimmy had taken Rose into his arms and nothing was needed but the parson. But that old case in Springfield, Mass., claimed the reformed burglar. It was at least good for ten years in Charlestown.

Up to this point the play had moved mechanically forward, but Jimmy's duel with Doyle, in which the former set up a carefully manufactured alibi, added seasoning to the evening. The scene was capitally played by Mr. Warner and Frank Monroe.

It should have been mentioned that Jimmy's chief claim as a burglar was his ability to solve combination locks by a delicate sense of touch. He needed no dynamite.

Jimmy's clash with Doyle might have been another victory, if the bank watchman had not rushed in and informed everybody that Rose's baby sister had been accidentally locked in the big new vault, which couldn't be opened until the next morning, after the time clock had done its night's duty.

Great Opening for the Pilgrims ⚾ ⚾ ⚾ ⚾ ⚾ ⚾ ⚾ Phillies to Start Ball Rolling

counted the best right-hander in Kling's string just now.

The Pilgrims will show up a new first baseman in "Smiling Ben" Hauser, a young giant who used to play baseball for Connie Mack but had no place on Mack's team because first base was held down by Captain Harry Davis, considered by many as the real brains of the world champion Athletics. Hauser played with Indianapolis last year. Mack let him out because he had two better first basemen in Davis and McInnis at that time. He was too good to farm.

Hauser was taken over by William Hepburn Russell, the late Boston National president and owner. He was sick at the time and away under weight when he reported with the Nationals. This Spring he reported overweight and still a bit out of condition. Since the team has been on the move, Hauser has gathered "ginger" and Kling is not worried about the first sack. This Hauser person swats the ball, when in shape, and he ought to add to the naturally heavy-hitting Boston National aggregation.

Big Bill Sweeney Right on the Job.

At second base is the old reliable Cap'n Bill Sweeney. Sweeney was always a good baseball player. This year he is better than ever. It looks like Sweeney is one of the best, if not the best, second basemen in the National League. He is handy with the bat, although not a big percentage hitter; but he has a faculty of "getting on" and making hits when they are necessary. He is an "inside baseball" player. He leads the batting list because he "gets on," but Kling would rather have him second on the list if he had a better "getter on," because Cap'n Bill knows how to work the opposition for advancement of the man ahead of him and himself. Besides that, Sweeney is a lightning fielder.

Kling is worried about his shortstop. Al Bridwell is on deck but can't play because he ran a rusty nail through his foot last Winter. "Scotty" Ingerton and Jack Spratt are the men he depends upon. Spratt will play today. They call him "Honus, Jr.," in the Pilgrim outfield, because he is built close to the ground and has played Wagner shortstop baseball in the spring training.

McDonald is holding down third base. He was there last year. He used to play the position in the International League. McDonald hits both right and left handed, according to the pitcher. That is the station he will occupy today. He has a substitute in Jay B. Kirke, the "bush leaguer," who hits the ball almost anywhere when he connects.

HOME RULE BILL IS PRESENTED

sisting of an Irish Senate and House of Commons. This body may make laws relating to Irish affairs, but may not touch such matters as the crown, army, navy and vital imperial affairs, Irish land purchase, old age pensions, nor the national insurance acts."

Every Seat Occupied.

Before Parliament convened the members of the Irish Nationalist party met and John E. Redmond, leader of the party, explained the main provisions of the measure. The leaders agreed with Mr. Redmond that the bill was satisfactory in detail.

The Premier stated that the Imperial Parliament retains the power to veto or postpone any action that the Irish Parliament passes.

"If a question arises regarding the validity of any Irish act," said Mr. Asquith, "it will be decided first by the Irish Court of Appeals, and will afterwards be passed upon by a special judicial committee."

Commons in an Uproar.

Commons was thrown into furious uproar when Asquith, in referring to the Belfast speech of A. Bonar Law, when the latter charged that the government had turned Commons into a market place, challenged the opposition leader to repeat his remark.

"I do," shouted Law, springing to his feet.

When the pandemonium was partly stilled, Asquith cried: "What was the government sold for?"

"Votes," replied Law, amid a chorus of shouts from the Unionists.

By this time Nationalists, Laborites and Liberals were standing up shouting "Muzzle him!" Finally order was restored.

Ireland will not lost her representation in the Imperial Parliament with Home Rule, Mr. Asquith said, but will continue to be represented there with forty-two memebrs.

Premier Asquith was cheered by the Liberals and Irish Nationalists when he concluded. There were hises from the Unionists.

Sir Edward Carson of Ulster followed and at once launched into a speech attacking Premier Asquith, the government and the Home Rule bill. He declared that the Home Rule proposals were an insult to Ulster and to Parliament.

In anticipation of exciting scenes in the House of Commons every seat in the gallery was filled before the hour of convening. The authorities exercised the greatest sprecaution to keep out suffragettes, fearing that the proceedings at this momentous hour might be interrupted by a "votes for women" demonstration.

Every seat on the oppositions side of the House was occupied before 11 o'clock, as the word had been given out that the anti-government forces would make the hardest fight in modern years to kill the measure. It was conceded on every side that each step of the bill would be marked by the most bitter debate.

Birrell to Close Debate.

When Premier Asquith and Mr. Redmond entered the chamber there were prolonged cheers. The introduction of the bill was accompanied by a speech from the Premier in which he set forth the benefits which would accrue from home rule. Mr. Asquith's speech was interrupted before he had gone very far by the entrance of Opposition Leader Law. The Unionists rose in their seats and cheered so loudly that the Premier had to cease until the Speaker restored order.

"We cannot admit the right of a small minority in Ulster to veto the verdict of a vast body of the people," declared the Premier. Home rule can no longer be represented as a concession to violence."

The Germantown house has been a landmark for visitors to this city for years, and it was believed that Mrs. Ross would pass the remainder of her life there. Christian K. Ross, the husband, who died some time ago, had expressed a desire before his death that the property be retained in the family.

POPE PIUS DEAD

NEWSPAPERS OF THE WORLD PRINTED REPORT THAT POPE PIUS X. WAS DEAD.

All of the evening papers of the world today printed stories that Pope Pius X. was dead.

Just who was responsible for circulating the report has not been ascertained as yet.

All over the world the news sped with lightning swiftness. In many of the cities of America bells were tolled to mark the supposed death of the aged pontiff.

The story of the Pope's death originated, so far as can be learned, in Madrid, Spain. There was a seeming corroboration of the report at the Nunciature.

From Madrid the report was flashed to the capitals of Europe and cabled to this country. Prominent clergymen of the Catholic church, while not denying the possibility of the report, could not well believe it, because of the fact that the news came from Madrid instead of from Rome.

Many Rumors About Pope's Health.

There have been many rumors lately as to the condition of the Pope's health. On several occasions it was believed that his end was near, but his remarkable vitality overcame illness.

Within the past week or so he has been a little stronger, if anything, than he has been for a long time. There had been no word from Rome that he had taken a turn for the worse, and because of that there were many who doubted the truth of the report that came from Madrid.

The Madrid story said that word had been received there from private sources at Rome that the Pope was dead.

This was followed by other reports from various places in Europe that were confirmatory of the Madrid dispatch. Attempts to reach Rome direct met with delay.

In the meantime the evening newspapers of the country har printed the rumor and the news was on every tongue of the big cities. The news came to Boston and was displayed on the bulletin boards in front of all the Boston newspapers.

Extra editions of the evening newspapers in Boston and other cities were issued and the news was spread throughout the country. The AMERICAN printed the story, as did all of the other Boston papers, but made an earnest effort to either confirm the news or secure an authoritative denial of it.

Shock to Millions.

The report that the Pope had died was a distinct shock to millions of his loyal and loving subjects, as well as to the world outside of the Catholic Church.

There were just two probabilities in connection with the report.

First, that private advices were received in Madrid from Rome, believed to be authentic, that the Pope was dead.

Second, that some one with little regard for the truth deliberately started the story and then before it could be stopped it had travelled around the would, leaving a trail of sadness.

The AMERICAN, after several hours' effort, secured a denial of the report from Rome.

This newspaper was quick to lay before the public a denial of the story that the Pope was dead, though a dispatch from London at 2 o'clock repeated the report that Pius X. was dead. Seemingly authentic advices from Rome received by the AMERICAN were to the effect that the Pope was in his usual health and that he has not even had visits from his physician for several days.

In this day of electricity and fast newspaper presses bad news and good news travel swiftly. Just as the bad news in connection with the Pope flashed forth, so was it followed by the good news that the Holy Father was still spared as the head of the great Catholic Church.

Hundreds of messages were sent to Rome today asking about the health of the Pope, and when it was denied that he was dead prayers of thankfulness were uttered by legions of Catholics and others of the Christian world.

Garfield Scores Taft in Talk at Harvard

Says President Has Made Flagrant Misuse of His Office for Personal Gains.

James R. Garfield, Secretary of the Interior in Roosevelt's cabinet, addressed Harvard students this afternoon in Emerson Hall, Cambridge, under the auspices of the Harvard Political Club, in the course of which he declared that President Taft's record disproved that he is a progressive. Mr. Garfield asserted that the President had made a flagrant misuse of his office to gain personal support of members of Congress.

"Taft's claim that he is a progressive must be determined by his record, not his promises," said Garfield, who is an original Roosevelt leader. "His record disproves his claim. The progressive policy for dealing in constructive legislation—legislation that would bring great interstate business directly under the supervision and regulation of the federal government through an administrative commission similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission. President Taft has made no serious effort to obtain such legislation; he has been content to rely upon litigation and has announced that the courts can fully protect the public against the wrongs and evils of monopoly and the improper use of great corporate power. The issue is thus clearly made.

"The progressives advocate direct, effective federal regulation, supplemented by court action to punish the individuals who violate the law. This means definite rules for the conduct of big business, under which legitimate business will be stronger, clearer, fairer, more permanently advantageous to the public, labor and capital."

COMMITTEE FOR LOMASNEY BILL

Representative Martin M. Lomasney scored a victory today on his bill providing that persons nominated by the Mayor of Boston as heads of departments who have to be passed upon by the Civil Service Commission, and against whom charges are preferred, shall be given a hearing by the commission. The victory was in the way of a favorable report on the bill from the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

The bill was introduced by Representative Lomasney as the result of the rejection of the appointment of his brother, Senator Lomasney, as Boston Health Commissioner by the Civil Service Commission because, it was understood, certain charges which were not made public, had been preferred against him.

The bill reported by the committee amends the law relative to the investigation of the Civil Service Commission into the fitness of persons nominated by the Mayor for heads of departments and provides,

"If any charge imputing a crime or misdemeanor or act of dishonesty to a nominee has been filed with the Civil Service Commission, which charge if proved would, in the opinion of the commission, affect the fitness of the nominee for the office in question, the commission shall immediately notify the nominee in writing, stating that such charge has been made and that the nominee has the right to a hearing.

"At such hearing the charge shall be stated to the nominee, but the source thereof shall not be revealed unless the commission votes to do so. The nominee shall have the privilege of being represented by counsel at such hearing and shall be given full opportunity to introduce evidence to explain or refute such charge."

REMSEN OUT OF JOHNS HOPKINS

Professor Ira Remsen, world renowned as a chemist, and with many personal friends at Harvard, has resigned as president of the famous Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore. His resignation has been accepted by the trustees of the institution.

Professor Remsen was at the head of the university for ten years. His motive in resigning from the presidency was that he desired to again enter the great field of chemical research and he found that he could not give the attention that he desired to it and remain at the head of the university.

It is the intention of Professor Remsen to devote the remainder of his life in chemical experiment, as he believes he can be of greater use to the world doing this work than acting as the head of a big college.

Studied in Germany.

Professor Remsen was born in New York City, February 26, 1846. He graduated from the College of the City of New York with M. D. in 1865 and received a Ph.D. from the College of Physicians and Surgeons later. He then studied in the University of Gottingen, Germany, and later receiving his LL. D. Taught the subject chemistry at Columbia, Princeton, Yale, and Toronto.

He was married April 5, 1875, to Bessie H. Mallory of New York during the time he was professor of chemistry at Williams College. In 1879 he founded the American Chemical Journal and served as the editor.

He was elected president of the National Academy of Science in 1907, and was elected to honorary membership in many chemical and pharmaceutical societies of this country and Europe.

It was in 1901 that he was elected to the presidency of the Johns Hopkins University and where he first became much interested in the study of foods. When the noted food expert, Dr. Harvey Wiley, was being grilled in the famous "benzoate of soda" case, Professor Remsen was chairman and leading figure in the famous Remsen investigating board.

Hostile to Dr. Wiley.

This board, it is claimed, was very hostile to Dr. Wiley, especially when Dr. Wiley declared that the salary of $2,000 being paid each member of this board was $400 in excess of the law. Professor Remsen is the chemical expert who stood out in favor of benzoate of soda, claiming that after many weeks' experimenting on persons, he could see no ill effect.

He has written a number of chemical books and invented many pieces of apparatus to be used in the study of chemistry.

JULIA SANDERSON SUES FOR DIVORCE

Many of the friends of Miss Julia Sanderson, leading woman of the musical comedy "The Siren," at the Colonial Theatre, learned for the first time today that she was married, when the announcement was made that she had filed suit for divorce against Tod Sloan, professional jockey, whom she married seven years ago. The suit has been filed in New York, through the office of Hayes & Herchfield.

LAST Y. W. C. A. LECTURE.

The last of the talks given at the Cambridge Y. W. C. A. building, Temple street, will be by Mrs. Henry E. Bray of Taunton, tonight at 7:45. Her subject will be: "Our Friends, the Birds."

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

If Tongue Is Coated, Stomach Sour, Breath Feverish, Give "Syrup of Figs" to Clean the Bowels.

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish, Mother! Examine the tongue; if coated, it means the little one's stomach is disordered, liver inactive and its thirty feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste.

Every mother realizes after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs" that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little one's tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectually, besides they dearly love its delightful fig taste.

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour, disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of "Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

BANK SECURITY MEASURE URGED

Bank Commissioner Thorndike and others appeared before the legislative Committee on Banks and Banking today in support of the recommendation of Governor Foss for legislation to permit savings banks to invest in the bonds of California, Oregon, New Jersey, Nebraska, Washington and Delaware, and of the cities in these States which may conform to the requirements of the statutes.

Mr. Thorndike said the field from which the savings banks may select investments is too small. The commissioner said he communicated with twelve of the leading savings banks of the State. Six banks favored the new law, four were undecided, one was opposed and one did not answer. Henry P. Parkman of the Provident Institution for Savings favored the legislation and made some suggestions. George E. Brack of the Home Savings Bank of Boston also favored the bill. There was no opposition.

LECTURES TO MUTES IN SIGN LANGUAGE

George C. Greenor, social worker of the North Bennet Street Industrial School, lectured in the sign language at the First United Presbyterian Church, South End. Frequently as his fingers sped the audience broke into laughter or eyebrows went up in surprise. He was telegraphing a highly interesting account of his experiences touring several European countries on a motorcycle, and his audience was made up almost entirely of deaf mutes.

12 Bananas a Day For Month Brakeman's Feat

CINCINNATI, April 11.—With his $10 wager tucked in his pocket John Breen, a six-foot brakeman today finished eating his last dozen bananas on a peculiar bet.

"I've gained eleven pounds since I started thirty days ago, eating a dozen bananas every night—some food," he said. He topped off the feat by eating five dozen hard boiled eggs and two dozen raw oysters. Besides this feat he drank six to eight beers and several large whiskies every night.

"I haven't lost my appetite—eat three squares a day—and the bananas are just a little desert. I am just a hearty eater. I work hard all day and like to eat," said Breen, who weighs 190 pounds and is six feet two inches.

"To show that the banana-eating contest has had no ill effect," said Breen "I will start again in a few days and see how quickly I can eat another thirty dozen."

Worried About Deed for That $87,000,000

Mrs. Catherine Sterritt Would Rather Be Peaceful and Happy Than Bother with Litigation.

Mrs. Catherine Sterrett would rather be poor and happy than be worried further about the $87,000,000 estate on which St. John, N. B., is situated.

"This old paper has given me more trouble than my whole family of twelve children the past thirty years; lawyers have been coming to my house all hours of the night and I've received more letters the past month than I ever received before in all my life. I'd rather have peace and be poor than have the entire estate of $87,000,000, with such worry and trouble."

Such was the opinion expressed by Mrs. Sterritt at her home No. 210 West Eighth street, South Boston. Mrs. Sterritt possesses a document which contains the metes and bounds of lands in New Brunswick, on part of which is now the city of St. John, and in London, England, which is the key to the settlement of an estate valued at many millions of dollars.

"When my uncle, Michael Comerford, was killed in a railroad accident nine years ago," she continued, "in his property was this ancient document over which there is so much fuss. I intend to keep it until the court orders me to do otherwise."

STRAINS OF HYMN BEGAN THIS ROMANCE

The sweet strains of a hymn floating through the window of the Dorchester Temple Baptist Church a year ago, so impressed the hearer, Raymond H. Wilson, of Watertown, that he sought out the singer, and now his engagement to Miss Mary Ethel Brice is announced.

Friends of the young folks declare that it was a case of love at sight.

Miss Brice is the daughter of Mrs. Mabel D. Brice. She is soprano soloist at the Dorchester Temple Baptist Church, corner of Welles avenue and Washington street, and is well known in musical circles of this city. Mr. Wilson is prominent in Masonic and political circles of Watertown.

CONVENTION RECALLS LEWIS INVITATION

COLUMBUS, April 11.—Because too much business will come before the convention to allow of outside speakers, the committee in charge of the Ohio constitutional convention has rescinded its invitation to William H. Lewis of Boston, assistant Attorney-General of the United States. He had been invited to address the convention next Wednesday.

NEW SUBWAY HITS TRAIN PATRONAGE

Owing to the loss of patronage, due to the new Cambridge subway, the Boston & Maine has announced that a dozen trains running between Cambridge and Boston will be taken off. Since the tube opened the daily traffic on the railroad has been reduced 1,000 passengers or more.

VOLCANO KILLS MANY THOUSANDS

MOBILE, Ala., April 11.—Whole Indian villages have been devastated and many persons have been killed by the eruptions of Chiriqui peak, near Bocas del Toro, in Panama, according to Captain Olsvik, of the steamship Fort Morgan, now in port.

Captain Olsvik says the eruption occurred April 5, early in the morning, while the Fort Morgan was berthed near Bocas del Toro, and that he witnessed flames shooting from the peak. Reports of the large casualty list were brought from the immediate scene to Bocas del Toro by refugees who escaped the onrushing lava. He says he watched the eruption April 5 until he put to sea.

The sea was affected in many places and the air was filled with smoke and dust far out into the gulf.

Chiriqui peak, as far as is known, never has shown volcanic activity.

"The Fort Morgan was berthed at the Almirante wharf, about fourteen miles from Bocas del Toro, on the morning of April 5, loading bananas," said Captain Olsvik, "when about 4 o'clock the eastern sky blazed forth and a great rumbling was heard. Looking in that direction I saw great volumes of fire shooting high.

GERTRUDE DAVIS, "NOTHING TO DO TILL TOMORROW"

GIRL TELLS OF 81-HOUR WORK

When Miss Gertrude Davis of Lynn, employed in a variety store at Western avenue and Washington street, Lynn, hears the clock strike five this afternoon, she will get up, put on her hat and coat and leave for home. And it will be the first time she has done so at that hour during the year she has worked for Samuel E. Luscomb, proprietor of the store.

Luscomb was arrested on a charge of working the girl an average of eighty-one hours a week. He paid costs of $25.

Miss Davis, who used to work from ten to fourteen hours a day and says she never thought of complaining, considered herself a "lucky guy" and was glad to have "nothing to do till tomorrow" when ten o'clock in the evening came around, today told how it seems to work only nine hours a day.

"After all," she said, in the intervals between weighing out tea and selling candy, "I'm glad that it's fifty-four hours instead of eighty-one, from now on. Although in the year I've worked for Mr. Luscomb it never occurred to me to ask for shorter time, still I can appreciate the change, now it's here. I'm to have an assistant—and so much extra time will be a great treat.

"Me complain? No, indeed. I never dreamed of such a thing. Who on earth ever sent in the complaint and got the inspector watching me is more than either Mr. Luscomb or I can imagine. There isn't any hard feeling between Mr. Luscomb and myself at all. He didn't realize, I suppose, how steadily I worked. Neither did I realize it. But I can't say it's injured me much! Do I look worn and weary?

"But I seldom got more than seven hours' sleep," Miss Davis continued, "and whenever I went to an entertainment I had to be home by eleven—which was a good idea, only then I got less sleep.

"I never asked for days off or shorter hours because Mr. Luscomb worked so hard himself that it didn't seem fair not to do my part. Even once in a while when I got a Sunday afternoon to myself I felt sort of uneasy about going away and having fun. Of course I didn't have much chance to do anything except tend store. Yet tending isn't like working over a machine. I had lots of time to read—and still it is not like having your time to yourself. It's tiresome. I'm glad to have shorter hours."

NAHANT WELCOMES SUFFRAGETTE TALK

That the necessity of using "indirect influence" to make themselves felt in governmental or other matters had made of women "meretricious minxes," was the declaration of Miss Alice Carpenter, State suffrage organizer, addressing the first "votes for women" meeting ever held in Nahant.

The invasion of Senator Lodge's bailiwick was successful, in that an interested audience packed the town hall to hear the speeches and cheer the speakers. Miss Carpenter, Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis of No. 447 Beacon street, and others talked, and Miss C. M. Amory of Boston presided.

$2,000,000 SHOE MACHINERY SUIT

The United Shoe Machinery Company was sued today by the Duplessis Independent Shoe Machinery Company, Limited, of Canada, for $2,000,000, notice being filed with the United States Court in Boston. The Canadian company alleges violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and declares that through the operations of the United, the Duplessis concern was driven out of business.

United States Marshal Murchie this afternoon served an attachment for the amount of the alleged damages on the property of the United Shoe at Beverly.

The writ is returnable the fourth Tuesday in June.

William A. Quigley of Boston is counsel for the Duplessis company. The company, it was declared today, was organized by English capital, and at one time operated a shoe machinery plant in Beverly. It is claimed the company was ousted from the shoe machinery field by the United.

The suit aroused great interest among business men. It marks another step in the tangle of litigation in which the United Shoe is involved. The government has brought both civil and criminal proceedings against the company and the directors. There are also suits by concerns or individuals, one by Henry E. Cilley asking damages of a million dollars.

The Canadian government has also started an investigation of the United Shoe Machinery Company in Canada.

Friday Three-Hour Sales

PRESIDENTIAL YEAR, so called because of the presidential election, is apt to be bad for business—at least such is the theory of many. It is beyond our wisdom to tell whether this is a fact or a notion. If a fact, it would augur badly for this year, when there are so many discordant elements entering into the contest. Well, the Three-Hour Sales have kept on the "even tenor of their way" year in and out, and their success has been a growing factor whether the times were good or bad. To many thousands of shoppers the Friday sales are the "old reliable," and they seem destined to remain so. This bargain list, we believe, is fully up to the Friday standard.

COUPLE HIRE BOAT; VANISH

In the strange disappearance of a young couple who hired a sailboat, which was later found deserted in Lynn channel, Beachmont has a mystery.

Saturday afternoon, the Alice, an eighteen-foot cape catboat, appeared at Pebble Beach, and the young man and the young woman were assisted ashore by John Briscoe in his tender. The young man explained that they were living at the Hazelton cottage, and that they had sailed across the bay from City Point. Mr. Briscoe remarked that that was a dangerous thing to do, and that the young man explained that he had sailed boats on Lake Michigan.

Sunday afternoon the couple borrowed Mr. Briscoe's tender and went out for a sail. Several hours later the Revere station of the metropolitan park police were notified by telephone from Nahant that a sailboat had capsized. Lieutenant C. G. Hawkins used his glasses and observed that the boat was upright. The police paid no further attention to the matter.

Today Mr. Briscoe sent Charles Smith out to bring in the sailboat, but the tender could not be found. The sailboat was full of water and the boom was broken.

BOY SLAYER'S CASE IS CALLED

PROVIDENCE, April 11.—Antonio Mariano, held as the slayer of twelve-year-old Willie Mather of North Providence, whose body was found on Moses Angell Hill after the lad had been missing for almost a month, was brought into the District Court today to face trial, but by agreement of counsel for both sides the hearing was postponed for two weeks.

James P. Collins, town solicitor of North Providence, is prosecuting the case. A. V. Pettine is counsel for the Mariano boy. The prosecution today sought to have the case continued for two weeks, during which time an effort will be made to unearth more conclusive evidence against the suspect than has yet been secured.

The attorney for the boy desired one week to secure evidence which he declares will demonstrate that the Mariano lad's story was forced from him by fright, when he was arrested, and that as a matter of fact he was not concerned in the killing.

BANCROFT SAYS PORT OF BOSTON WILL AID SALEM

That Salem and the other important industrial cities of Massachusetts and New England have more at stake than Boston in the development of the port of Boston, was the declaration of Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Directors of the Port of Boston, speaking to the United Men's Circle in Salem.

"Salem," said Chairman Bancroft, "receives its raw materials and turns out the finished products to a great extent by water transportation. Salem is many thousands of dollars out of pocket each year because much of this is passing through the port of New York."

SECURED BEACH KNIFE BY RUSE

AIKEN, S. C., April 11.—Special Agent Baughn, whom the Aiken authorities employed to investigate the assault on Mrs. Frederick O. Beach here on the night of February 26 last, said today:

"When I first was introduced to Mrs. Beach and was left alone with her I told her that I should like to have her co-operation in getting at the facts in the case and she assured me that she would assist me all she could. I told her that I did not want to ask her any questions that would excite her in any way. She looked straight at me for a moment and replied:

"'Excitement doesn't run in my family, ask me anything you like.'"

"After a few unimportant questions I asked her if she had ever been married before. Quick as a flash she answered that she had, adding almost in the same breath:

"'My first husband was devoted to me.'

"All this before I had asked her anything of her domestic relations with Mr. Havemeyer. 'He idolized the ground I walked on and he loved me better than he did his own life. He ended his life over business troubles.'

"Once Mr. Beach's knife on which we found blood, was in my hands, the chain of evidence tightened. It was the link that forged it, but I found it necessary to resort to a bit of maneuvering to get it. Mr. Beach first denied that he had a knife.

"One day while Mr. Beach was being interviewed in the Mayor's office I asked him to make a note on a piece of paper and he asked me for my pencil. I had already prepared the pencil, having cut the lead so that it would break at the slightest touch. Immediately he touched it to the paper the point broke off and Mr. Beach threw the pencil on the desk. It was the opportunity I had been waiting for. Presently I picked it up and made as if to use it, then seeing that the pencil was broken off I asked Mr. Beach if he would kindly let me have his knife. He got up, felt in his pocket and then replied, 'I have no knife.'

"Then I sat down and waited for developments. It was about two days after that the expected happened. Mr. Beach came to Mayor Gyles' office in person and said that he did have a knife and showed it to the mayor. The mayor told him that probably I would like to see it and Mr. Beach said: 'Well, he can see it whenever he cares to.'

Banker Gives $125,000 for Harvard School

Business Administration Department Will Establish Permanent Banking Professorship With Converse Gift.

The establishment of a permanent professorship in banking at Cambridge is now possible through the gift of $125,000 by E. C. Converse, a New York banker, to the Harvard School of Business.

The gift is one of the first returns on the appeal for funds which President A. Lawrence Lowell made in his annual report, which was published last month.

Other gifts amounting to $63,250 have been announced, including $28,000 in securities from Mrs. J. K. Paine to establish a fellowship in music to be known as the John Knowles Paine fellowship.

Mr. Converse, who comes to the rescue of the business school, is a native of Boston, though not a Harvard graduate. He prepared for Harvard at the Boston English High School, but later chose a business career. He is at present president of the Bankers' Trust Company and the Astor Trust Company of New York.

J. CLINCH SMITH WINS WIFE BACK FROM RIVAL, MUSIC

PARIS, April 11.—James Clinch Smith, of New York, has won his wife back to himself and to Smithtown, L. I. This refutes finally the report that they were separated because of her infatuation for music.

Home Testimony Counts

Many Boston sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuritis testify that they have found "Nurito" so effective as an antidote to uric acid that almost immediate relief and complete banishment from pain has been secured. What is better to comfort our Rheumatics than this home testimony?

Thousands of old-time Rheumatics are now in the best of health after using "Nurito."

Its satisfied users are its best advertisers—pretty good advertisers, too!

Come to the Houghton & Dutton Co. get a $1 box of "Nurito," a physician's prescription—not a patent medicine—that contains neither Opiates nor Narcotics, and if it doesn't relieve you your money will be refunded.

A thousand girls are expected to attend, as their demands for betterments will be passed on at this meeting. Peter F. "GAG RULE" MODIFIED BY PRESIDENT TAFT

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The old so-called "gag rule," which practically forbids civil service employes to petition Congress has been modified by President Taft in an executive order. This new order permits civil service employes to forward petitions to Congress or any of its committees through the heads of their departments. Heretofore they could only petition by authority of the department heads. Department heads hereafter will be obliged to forward petitions with any comment they think proper.

MYSTERY IN NEW OIL CORPORATION

WILMINGTON, Del., April 11.—Inquiry relative to the incorporation at Dover of the Southern Oil Fields Company with a capital of $50,000,000 failed to elicit any direct information. The incorporators mentioned in the charter are all residents of Wilmington and officers of an incorporating concern. Relative to the rumors that the new company was formed to take over part of the business of the Standard Oil Company, D. E. McWhinney, one of the incorporators, said he knew of no foundation for them.

MARKET MEN FORM NEW SECRET ORDER

CLAIMS HUSBAND LOCKED HER OUT

Alleging her husband removed the furniture from their home, took all their wedding presents and then locked her out of the house and deserted her, Mrs. Abbie B. Thrush of Wakefield brought suit against Herbert Thrush in the Probate Court, East Cambridge, for separate support. Mrs. Thrush claims that since the day he deserted her he has refused her assistance and support, and asks that a suitable attachment on his property be allowed for her support and maintainance.

PALMA SAYS HE SHOT MAN IN SELF DEFENCE

The trial of Raffaele Palma, charged with the murder of Giovanni Megna and the wounding of Agrippina Spitezo, will probably be concluded today, much of the evidence for the defence being in. Testifying in his own behalf, the defendant declared that after a card game on the night of January 6 Megna slapped him across the face. The host then warned the witness he had better get out, and ushered him and his friends to the street. He heard Megna behind him shout out: "You big coward, are you still here, and if you are I will kill you." He said Megna had his revolver in his hand.

MILITIA GUARDS MICHIGAN G. O. P. CONVENTION

Taft and Roosevelt Forces Near a Clash on Auditorium Floor at Bay City.

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—St. Louis County today elected a solid delegation of thirty-four Roosevelt men to the State Convention to be held in St. Louis April 25. This practically clinches Missouri for Roosevelt over Taft.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 11.—Violent scenes marked the preliminary proceedings of the Republican State convention today. Roosevelt and Taft forces were lined up at the door of the armory and in every conceivable place where they might gain admission, while members of the Michigan National Guards, under command of Captain Beckwith, preserved order, in compliance with the official request from Governor Osborne. There was incessant rapping and pounding on doors by impatient delegates on both sides as the work of checking off the floor program proceeded.

The Roosevelt followers were successful in getting former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indian into the hall soon after the State Central Committee, presided over by Secretary King, took up the matter of arrangements. Beveridge took his seat to await the decision as to where he was to speak. Grant Fellows of Hudson, a Taft man, who supplanted Truman H. Newberry, entered the hall with the committee, and Newberry came in a short time afterward carrying in his pocket a letter of the committee stating he had been deposed.

King took matters in charge and the appointment of Robert Shields of Hancock as acting chairman to succeed W. Frank Knox, a Roosevelt man, was put through over the protest of Knox, who claimed the preceding delegate.

DETROIT, April 7.—A Lansing dispatch says Governor Osborn has called out the militia to guard the Republican hall at Bay City. It is feared rioting will take place there, the dispatch says.

BAY CITY, Mich., April 11.—Shortly before the Republican State convention convened at noon today, Charles Nichols, of Detroit, manager for the Roosevelt forces in Michigan, marched his delegation to the National Guard Armory door and said if there were a rump convention the Taft people would hold it.

Europe Sends Us Best Consumption Remedy

Switzerland has lately been producing a remedy called Sirolin, which has taken the physicians of Europe by storm by its wonderful work in the treating of Consumptives.

So continued have been the successes, and so strong has been the praise accorded it, that Sirolin is now being imported into this country in large quantities.

Sirolin has succeeded where everything else has failed, because it is agreeable to the most delicate stomach and aids the digestion to such a degree that the patient takes on weight rapidly.

It has also received praise on the strength of its being entirely free from harmful and habit-forming drugs, and never fails to relieve the most distressing symptoms even in the most advanced stages of the disease.

Additional information about Sirolin can be obtained in this country from the Sirolin Company, 228 West Broadway, New York City.

All leading druggists are recommending and distributing Sirolin with considerable success.

COL. ROOSEVELT WINS IN MAINE

Theodore Roosevelt swept the Maine Republican convention, winning every one of the twelve delegates, according to returns from Bangor today.

The Roosevelt victory was complete and unquestioned, the Taft forces practically withdrawing from the field and conceding the ex-President's win.

The Roosevelt forces in Massachusetts received the news with a celebration. Matthew Hale, who leads the Roosevelt clan in the State, received telegrams and letters of congratulations and advice, and prepared to give the Colonel a rousing welcome when he comes to Springfield tomorrow. He will speak there tomorrow evening, and at once go to New Hampshire, where he will follow the Taft trail and seek to blot out all traces of the President's one-day tour of the State.

In Vermont, the delegation stands six to two for Taft. Of the delegates, four are instructed, two for Roosevelt and two for Taft, while the other four are uninstructed, but are known to be Taft men and will support the President at the convention.

Colonel Roosevelt's week-end tour of New Hampshire is expected to result in the swinging of the Granite State's delegates to the ex-President in the primaries of April 23.

Of all the New England or even North-Eastern States, Colonel Roosevelt wants New Hampshire. He said so to the thousands who greeted him at Dover when on his way two weeks ago to Maine. Governor Bass, the Progressive Governor of New Hampshire, has been held by Colonel Roosevelt in his addresses throughout the country as an example of what Republicans on a progressive program can accomplish.

CHEERING THRONGS GREET ROOSEVELT IN PENNSYLVNIA

READING, Pa., April 11.—When the Roosevelt special reached here this afternoon a throng greeted the ex-President. The colonel was also cheered by enthusiastic crowds on the way here. At Norristown, while 3,000 people applauded him, he said:

"I hope you'll vote day after tomorrow the way you're shouting now."

He told the crowd at Royersford, Phoenixville and Pottstown that he wanted Pennsylvania to "knock the bosses out the way Illinois did it." The throng at Pottstown was the largest of the run here, fully 500 being at the station.

He hit at Senator Penrose and the boss system in his speech here before a gathering of 10,000.

"You've got to put the bosses down if you want to get anything for yourselves," he cried. "The bosses want to cheat us out of this fight, but they can't do it.

"Pennsylvania ought to repeat what Illinois did. I think it will. We are going to win."

HOW A BOSTON COLLEGE GIRL LOST HERSELF.

A Boston college girl, who disappeared like Dorothy Arnold, tells how she evaded 15,000 searchers for seven years in New York without even hiding. And Police Commissioner Dougherty tells why New York is the best place for hiding. See SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

SEE VICTORY NOW FOR CLARK

CHICAGO, April 11.—No more popular victory has been achieved in the State of Illinois than the sweeping triumph won in the Democratic primaries by Champ Clark, candidate for the presidency of the United States.

Clark defeated Wilson by 140,000, while Roosevelt's majority over Taft was 25,000 less.

Governor Deneen was renominated by the Republicans by a plurality of 75,000, while Dunne was nominated by the Democrats for Governor by about 40,000.

The advisory vote on United States Senator shows that Lawrence Y. Sherman received the endorsement of the Republican voters of the State over Senator H. Cullom by about 25,000.

United States Senator Cullom met defeat in his attempt to capture the Republican party organization from Governor Deneen. His candidates for State committeemen were defeated in his home district, and, as a result, it is said he will not go as a delegate to the Republican national convention. He was defeated in all but one congressional district in his campaign for party leadership, and now Governor Deneen will control the new State central committee by a large majority.

"The result has vindicated our claim for Champ Clark," said William K. Pattison, "that he will be the great harmonizer and that he will bring the Democratic party together for the election in November and go to the White House as the representative of all the people.

Telegrams are fairly flooding the Clark headquarters and the most enthusiastic messages are being received from all parts of the State of Missouri, which claims Champ Clark as "favorite son."

There was a long conference between the Clark leaders in the State in the offices of Mr. Pattison yesterday afternoon. The sweeping victory has brought great confidence that the result is practically the last word in the presidential race as far as the Democratic nomination is concerned, for information received today goes to show that the effect of the victory has been widespread and very significant.

"I am grateful to the Hearst papers," telegraphed Mr. Clark to Mr. Pattison, and his active leaders in the State added a very sympathetic amen to the terse sentiment of their chief.

That the victory of Champ Clark was another body blow to Roger Sullivan was more firmly established today, when it became known that Sullivan had been asked to support Clark and has refused to do so, although the requests was made by a man who had done Sullivan a great favor when he needed friends in Washington, and asked for the support of Clark in return for the consideration then shown.

Clark ran beyond the expectations of his most sanguine friends and his success establishes him firmly as the man of the hour, who is more prominent in the public eye than any other candidate and whose election next November is being discussed, not as a possibility, but almost as a certainty.

Edgar F. Dunne's victory is widely popular. It is confidently believed he will be the next Governor of the State, since his record will stand more than favorable comparison with that of his Republican opponent, Deneen. He rolled up an enormous vote in Chicago, running only 15,000 votes behind Champ Clark in Cook County.

ROOSEVELT CLUB HEAD HAILS FROM HATFIELD'S WARD

Roosevelt Republicans of Newton, forming today a Roosevelt Club, carried the war direct into the enemy's country by electing as president of their organization former Alderman Thomas Weston, Jr. He lives in the same ward as Chairman Charles E. Hatfield of the Republican State Committee. The Republican machine of the State, while avowedly neutral, is exerting all its influence for the election of Taft delegates.

HOW TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION

One of our lady readers who found that her skin was becoming harsh and dry from the use of powders, rouge and creams, sends us the formula below. She states that the simple, harmless, and inexpensive lotion made therefrom softened her skin, and so greatly enhanced the beauty of her complexion that she has entirely done away with all other preparations which she had been accustomed to use. This lotion can easily be prepared at home or by any good druggist. It calls for two ounces of Rose Water, one drachm Tincture of Benzoin, and two ounces Flowers of Oxzoin. Mix together and apply night and morning with the hands or use a soft cloth or sponge. Always shake well before using. Our obliging correspondent asks that her name be withheld for personal reasons, but nevertheless gives us the permission to publish her letter for the benefit of other readers. She adds that this formula was given her by a woman 65 years old whose youthful complexion and almost total absence of wrinkles were a source of wonder and admiration to all who knew her.

Reference to the Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores of this City brings out the statement that these ingredients are all regularly carried in their stock and that they can fill the prescription at any time.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS ARE HARMONIOUS

NEW YORK, April 11.—All was harmony when the New York State Democratic convention convened here today to elect delegates to the national convention in Baltimore.

There were no factional disputes or threatened contests to mar the serenity of the gathering, and it was confidently predicted that all the business would be cleaned up before late tonight. As a result of the opposition of leader Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall to the instruction of delegates to vote for any one man at Baltimore, the belief was general that New York's ninety representatives would go to Baltimore untrammelled by cut and dried orders.

There was a strong feeling in favor of casting New York's first vote in favor of Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York City, and many of the delegates appeared at the convention hall in Terrace Garden wearing buttons inscribed "Gaynor for President."

Announcement was made that the fight on the convention floor which Henry P. Keith of the First Congressional District had threatened to launch, because of an attempt to unseat him on the State Committee, had been smoothed over at a meeting of the State Committee. It was decided to make the tariff the leading plank in the platform and the two most important resolutions call for tariff reduction and enforcement of the anti-trust laws.

ROOSEVELT SURE PENNSYLVANIA BOSS REGIME WILL LOSE

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Colonel Roosevelt started out on his third day of campaigning of Pennsylvania today, leaving here at 10:36 a. m. He took a special train out of here on the Reading railroad, his scheduled stops being Conshohocken, Morristown, Royer's Ford, Phoenixville, Pottstown, Birdsboro, Reading, Allentown, Bethlehem and Easton.

CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILDREN NEED GENTLE, THOROUGH CASCARETS

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle, though thorough, physic—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets, which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—though cleanse the little one's system, sweeten the stomach and put the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative, which costs only 10 cents per box.

Consumption

Anyone interested in the cure of Consumption should get one of the booklets telling of recoveries by the use of Eckman's Alterative.

Coughs, Stubborn Colds and Pneumonia may be the beginning of more serious troubles — Eckman's Alterative is the effective remedy. Read Mr. Kanaly's statement: Saratoga, N. Y.

"Gentlemen: For five or six years I was troubled with cough and expectoration. I also had a high fever. My case was declared Consumption by my physician. I was given Cod Liver Oil, Creosote and other medicines, all without benefit.

"At Christmas time, 1906, I was not expected to live. Calling Dr. R. H. McCarthy, he advised the use of Eckman's Alterative, which I took with excellent results and was entirely cured.

"During the past year I have gained 15 lbs. I go out in all weathers and have had no cough or cold whatever. I give these facts to encourage others to use Eckman's Alterative."

(Signed Affidavit) JAS. W. KANALY.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. THINK SNYDER KILLED SELF

NEW YORK, April 11.—Miss Mary Karn, who is held by the police pending the completion of their inquiry into the death of Walter J. Snyder, as whose wife she posed, today declared her confidence she would be released before the end of the week.

The police are now inclined to accept her repeated declarations that Snyder jabbed the blades of a pair of eight-inch shears into his body while they were tussling in a spirit of fun in their room.

Snyder was found at No. 930 St. Nicholas avenue with four stab wounds in his body.

Acting upon the advice of her attorneys in Detroit, Mrs. Bertha Yaeger Snyder, real wife of the slain man, has decided not to come to New York to appear in defence of the woman lodged in the Tombs. She was told that if she placed herself within reach of the authorities there she might be held as a material witness. She still expresses the deepest sympathy for Miss Karn.

LANDS RECORD POTATO CARGO

Enough potatoes were brought into this port in the hold of the Leyland liner Armenian today to provide a meal for every man, woman and child in Greater Boston and leave some in the cupboard. The shipment is the largest of foreign tubers ever brought into an American port.

The Armenian's cargo amounts to 115,406 bushels, or about 3,200 tons, altogether having a value of $146,881. Yesterday the Wilson liner Idaho and the Cunarder Franconia brought in together 22,000 bushels. Despite the large imports the market price in Boston jumped 8 1-3 cents on the bushel today. The Armenian's cargo marks the climax in an ever-increasing flood of potatoes which started with the new year. Since that time 1,150,209 bushels of foreign potatoes have come into this port. On these the government has collected revenues amounting to $287,552.25.

Volunteers Called to Save the Babies

To assist in the campaign against infant mortality, the health board today called for volunteer workers from the settlement houses and those interested in sociological work.

The new law which requires all births in Boston to be reported within forty-eight hours goes into effect on April 1.

It is the intention of the health department officials to visit every home where a birth is reported, instruct the fathers, mothers and older children how to care for babies.

The work which the department has mapped out cannot be systematically done with the regular department force of nurses and for that reason the volunteers are sought.

Volunteers for this work should apply to Dr. F. H. Slack, secretary of the Board of Health, No. 100 Summer street.

BROOKLINE VOTERS RATIFY BUILDING LAW AMENDMENTS

The amendments to the building laws were ratified at the special referendum meeting at the Brookline Town Hall. Of the 1,586 ballots cast, 852 were in favor of ratifying the vote adopting the amendments passed at the adjourned town meeting March 15 and 730 were against.

In passing favorably on the building law amendments the voters have authorized many new departures. A permanent Board of Appeal is authorized, to which may be referred petitions of those dissatisfied with the decision of the building commissioner in any matter pertaining to construction. This board cannot be appointed, however, until the vote passed yesterday has been approved by the Attorney General and then advertised.

DRIVEN TO DEATH BY WORRYING OVER PLANS FOR HOUSE

The worrying of attempting to plan and construct a house without consulting an architect or contractor, resulting in a temporary mental derangement, is given as the cause of the suicide of Herbert A. Sawyer of Newton Highlands, a well-known jewelry salesman.

Sawyer threw himself in front of a train in the subway at the Grand Central Station, New York.

He was thirty-two years old and was Boston manager of the Gorham Company, with offices in West street. He had been taken to William Muldoon's sanitarium in New York State last Monday.

A New Soda-Grill

Today we informally open a beautifully appointed Soda-Grill in the basement of our Washington and Avon Street Store. This convenient resting-place in the heart of Boston's busy shopping district we know you will appreciate. We have spared neither effort nor expense to give you all that is refined and artistic.

Luxurious Simplicity Is Everywhere in Evidence

We have furnished this room in solid mahogany—hand carved. The walls are hand-painted—done in oil—and represent old English views. There is a garden scene made realistic by live plants and a real fountain of running water. There is a fire-place ornamented with rare Mosaics and leaded art-glass. There is a system of indirect lighting designed to produce a delicate and subdued tone.

There Is Peace and Comfort for the Tired Shopper

At the tables we shall serve our delightful Opeko Tea as well as those tempting delicacies that have made our Soda Fountains famous. And our service will be prompt and courteous.

We cordially invite you to come and inspect this magnificent room; it is unsurpassed.

R. W. SEARS, STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER, WEDS DALHOUSIE GRADUATE

Richard W. Sears, head of the AMERICAN'S staff of photographers, and Miss Mildred M. Elliott, daughter of Mrs. Odessa Elliott of Allston, were married at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Allston, by the Rev. H. K. Barlow, of Cohasset.

The bride was attended by Miss Ethel Brown of Cambridge as maid of honor. Miss Ida Fales and Miss Dorles Gray of Cambridge were bridesmaids and Elsie Gates, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Octave Bourdon of Cambridge was best man.

The ushers were Joseph A. Callahan of Brookline, Joseph Rottenburg of Chelsea, Victor Cavazza of Brookline, Wylie Gates of Somerville, and Robie Elliott of Allston, brother of the bride. James Gates, grandfather of the bride, gave her in marriage.

The bride's gown was of white satin with point lace trimmings. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore yellow chiffon over satin and the bridesmaids were gowned in yellow satin.

A reception was given at the home of the bride, No. 4 Royal street, Allston, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sears started on a wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia. The groom is the son of Captain and Mrs. Eben W. Sears of Peabody.

MORGAN SEES ART TREASURES IN SIENA

SIENA, Northern Italy, April 11.—J. Pierpont Morgan braved a heavy rain to come by automobile from Florence to this city, once the mighty rival of Florence in art as well as in political and commercial importance. The art treasures in the Town Hall profoundly interested Mr. Morgan, who asked many questions. Then the party had luncheon in a small cafe. Afterward the Torre della Mangia Museum of the Piccolomini Palace was inspected. There Mr. Morgan saw 52,000 parchment charters, dating from A. D. 736, autographs of celebrated men, famous miniatures and portraits and a valuable collection of book covers hundreds of years old.

BRADY WAR PICTURES PRAISED BY PENSION OFFICER BICKNELL

I have examined with a great deal of interest the copies of Lossing's History of the Civil War and Brady's War Photographs, and am much pleased with them.

To my mind, they should engage the attention of the rising generation, particularly the children in the public schools, in whom we are seeking to inculcate lessons of patriotism and the spirit of patriotic devotion.—F. A. Bicknell, Commissioner of State Aid and Pensions, commenting upon the AMERICAN'S Brady War Pictures.

SHOT IN BACK; GIRL WALKS TO A DOCTOR

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 11.—Clotilda Lisa, nineteen years old, was shot in the back, probably by a stray rifle bullet, as she was walking along Harris avenue, in Olneyville. She kept on to a doctor's office and afterward was removed to a hospital.

CAPT. SOL. JACOBS HAS A COLLISION WITH AN UNKNOWN

GLOUCESTER, April 11.—The steamboat R. J. Killock, recently purchased by Captain William McDonald for pollock seining, was hauled up on the ways today for repairs to her hull, following a collision with an unknown schooner during the night seven miles off Eastern Point. The steamboat carried away the schooner's bowsprit and, in return, received two holes below the waterline and suffered loss of her stem. Both vessels narrowly escaped being sent to the bottom.

The Killock is being fitted for her new seining work by Captain Sol. Jacobs, the Boston and Gloucester skipper. Yesterday Captain Jacobs ran the steamer over to Provincetown to get her seine boat. On the return trip when the Killock was seven miles off Eastern Point there was a terrific crash. The Killock had collided with a sailing vessel which loomed up out of the darkness. The helmsman declared later that the other vessel showed no green light.

Mr. Underwood is the justice's junior by twenty-five days.

Puts Case Before People

[illegible] transportation [illegible]

Our freight and passenger service [illegible] disadvantage [illegible] Boston & Maine [illegible] practically [illegible]

As a first step [illegible] I have asked the Legislature to create a public service commission with real powers of regulation over the railroads and other [illegible] views. And now because the railroad situation is so urgent I have decided to go direct to the people of the State for a wide expression of [illegible] the following question:

If the Legislature creates a powerful public service commission to control our railroad service, then are the people ready to permit the New Haven road to lease the Boston & Maine on the condition that they expend $1 [illegible] in [illegible] connection of the [illegible] the north and south of Boston, making [illegible] track tunnel under Boston for the purpose [illegible] electrifying [illegible] combined trackage within the metropolitan area and bringing the whole system up to the highest standard of efficiency?

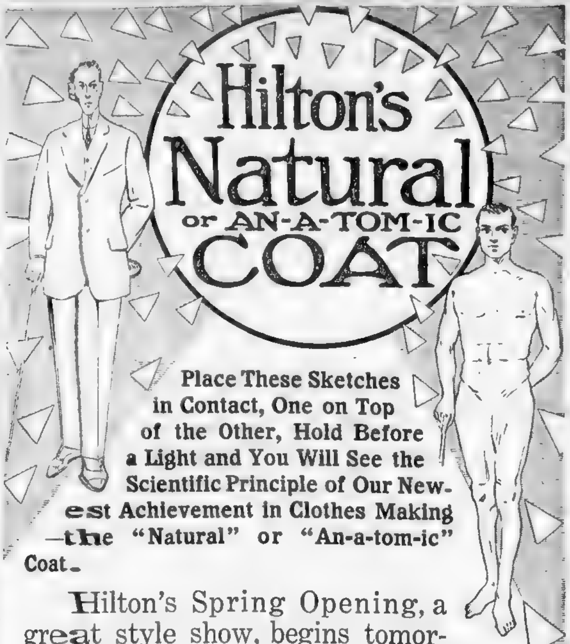
SUNDAY'S AMERICAN



Hilton's Natural or AN-A-TOM-IC COAT

Place These Sketches in Contact, One on Top of the Other, Hold Before a Light and You Will See the Scientific Principle of Our Newest Achievement in Clothes Making —the "Natural" or "An-a-tom-ic" Coat.

Hilton's Spring Opening, a great style show, begins tomorrow, when we start another chapter of the history recording our notable achievements in perfecting Men's Ready-for-Duty Clothes.

Our latest contribution to tailoring art—and one that is destined to completely revolutionize the present method of tailoring men's clothing—was conceived by Joseph Hilton, the designer of this firm, whose CONCAVE SHOULDER, nine years ago, was immediately adopted by clothing manufacturers the country over.

The object of the "Natural" or "Anatomic" Coat is to suggest the natural lines and beauty of the human form WITHOUT PADDING. Hilton's "Natural" coat radiates the manly form within, or enhances the appearance of those less fortunately endowed by nature by hiding their deficiencies by diffusion of material, which falls gracefully at all points.

By placing the nude figure behind the dressed one it will be seen that the outline of the coat reflects the figure beneath it. Starting at the collar, it will be noticed that the coat takes a natural line with the shoulder, continuing over the deltoid muscle down the sleeve. Following the line of the body down over the breast, the coat rests gently, suggesting the pectoral muscle. The line then falls gracefully into the waist, continuing comfortably over the hips.

Hilton's "Natural" or "An-a-tom-ic" Coat May Be Had in Suits Ranging in Price from $12.50 to $40, With a Selection of 24 Different Models

In this, as in all seasons past, Hilton Clothes differ from any other ready-to-wear clothes that have ever been offered in this city.

There is an absolute Absence of fuss and fustian of ordinary ready-made tailoring in these Hilton Clothes; and there is an absolute presence of all the elements of the highest-grade custom tailoring in them.

The coats fit snugly, yet comfortably—as a glove, yet gracefully correct—shoulders and collars without stiffening — lapels rolling freely, but with the quality of hand tailoring which prevents even a momentary lapse of purpose.

When you have reviewed the offerings of all the others who have a claim to your consideration, THE ONE IMPORTANT FACT WILL APPEAR THAT HILTON'S OFFER THE FINEST, THE MOST BEAUTIFUL, THE MOST MODERATELY PRICED READY-FOR-SERVICE CLOTHES OF THEM ALL.

The clothes are ready for you, gentlemen.

TO VISIT GUILD ON RUSSIAN HONEYMOON

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 11.—Howard Millar Chapin of Providence and his bride, who was Miss Hope Caroline Brown, daughter of former Governor D. Gaby Deslys' Beautiful Hair

While Gaby Deslys was charming the theatre-goers of New York, her beautiful hair, with its bright, silken sheen, was the source of constant admiration. This delightful actress explained that the beauty and remarkable luster of her hair was due largely to her scalp being kept perfectly clean, as only from a clean, healthy scalp can beautiful hair grow.

A mistake most women make is in shampooing with soap. It does not cleanse the scalp thoroughly and the alkali dulls the hair, destroying whatever brilliance it may have. If one will shampoo with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, the scalp will be immediately clean and the hair will take on that wonderful luster and fluffiness which has imparted such a charm to Gaby Deslys.

The young princess will inherit from her [illegible] $20,000,000. Prince Victor sent French soil to Brussels and had it spread [illegible] the floor of his wife's room so it might be said the child was born on the soil of France.

"Why, Paul!" exclaimed the girl, staring [illegible]

The outcast smiled bitterly and held up a cup half full of ava.

"A blessing, we should use it, should we not?" he quoted. "'And if a curse, why then, who set it here?'"

Diana turned to him with a start. "Why, he's quoting the Rubaiyat!" she exclaimed.

"At the worse," growled Wilson. "He [illegible] have been somebody decent once."

The empty cup slipped out of the lost one's [illegible] and dropped to the sand.

Diana [illegible] "How can you be so cruel to a human being!"

The [illegible] put down the bottle beside the [illegible] and [illegible] slowly and unsteadily toward the girl. Instinctively she shrank back and held out a hand toward Wilson.

"Well, sir," snapped the latter in a threatening voice, as he stepped in between them.

"[illegible] you, Miss," said the lost one [illegible]

A [illegible] look came into the outcast's [illegible] he swayed on his feet.

"[illegible] can't blame a fool for thanking [illegible] the first woman who's said a decent word to [illegible] in years," he said thickly. [illegible] he seemed to grope his way [illegible] Wilson was about to [illegible] out of the grass [illegible] her [illegible] costume. She [illegible] raised her shoulder in [illegible]

"[illegible] I'll wait I'll go with you."

"[illegible]," he said hurriedly. "I—I [illegible] think there's time for a woman to [illegible] climb. But I'll be right back—[illegible]." And he hastened out.

[illegible] moved swiftly over to the out[illegible]. The setting sun threw a red gold shaft into the mouth of the [illegible] and [illegible] the white[illegible] girl with a rosy glow. But the lost one supposed she had gone and was about to take another drink when she spoke.

[illegible] The drink rested midway to its destination and the lost one looked up with a start of surprise. "Haven't you followed his philosophy to its logical end?" she asked coldly.

"Philosophy," he repeated slowly, his eyes on her face. "Who told you I had a—philosophy?"

"Have you?"

"Yes," he replied [illegible]. Then he threw back his head and laughed mirthlessly. "Drink! For you know not whence you came, nor why; drink! For you know not why you go, nor where."

"If I were a man," said the girl scornfully, "I'd know!"

"Would you?" murmured the outcast sarcastically.

"There was another poet who said, 'The world stands aside for the man who knows whither he is going.'" Her voice was vibrant with eagerness. The outcast raised his head with a quick decided gesture and his face lit up for an instant. Turning his flank on the quotation touched one of the long [illegible] centres of his once [illegible] felt an instant the [illegible] strife. But it passed in a moment. He remembered [illegible] was, not what he once was.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

The Ways of the Women

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

THE women have a way of talking of the difficulty of keeping up with their work as if their work ran like a scared wolf.

After a woman has been married as long as six weeks her attitude toward her husband plainly says: "I will cook for you and mend for you, and keep the house for you, but I will no longer worship you."

When a man tips his hat to a woman his wife doesn't know, she asks him more questions in the next five minutes than a child ever asked in an hour on a railroad train.

After a woman has been married six months the tradesmen don't hear so much about what her husband likes to eat.

When a woman returns from a visit she devotes more time to telling of the horrible condition in which she found the house than she does to expressing joy at seeing her husband.

The spot where a man plants his chair when at home Sunday morning is the spot where his wife wants to sweep next, and this would be true if he took his chair to the roof.

A woman who won't leave the house with [illegible] as much as the broom out of place will walk out on the street with her face looking as if she had run it against a powder rag in the dark.

There is always some handicap for a woman. As a girl she can't go to parties at night because she has no man to take her, and after she gets a man for life she can't go because there is no one to leave with the baby.

Love is the predominating instinct with a woman when she marries, but in a very short time she says less about love, and begins to pray for patience.

If a woman had a [illegible] of indigestion as long as seventeen years ago, [illegible] she still calls him up to see if [illegible] giving the impression that certain foods will act on her stomach like a match acts on dynamite, causing it to blow up.

When she admits that her husband is good to her she qualifies it by adding "in his way."

As every man leaves the house he hears, "When are you coming home?" and when he gets there at night he is asked, "What makes you so late?"

It often happens that woman [illegible] better health than any one else in the family because she has no time for sickness or any other recreation.

Women in real life are much superior to those in the story books in one respect: They waste very little time gazing sadly out into the night.

The mother of the bad boy who is always into mischief always says of the good boy who lives next door, "I never in my life saw such a lifeless child!"

When a mother puts away her baby's first shoe, it is with the firm belief that some day the State Historical Society will send for it.

When a man gets hold of a married woman's hand and squeezes it she looks indignant, of course, but it was her first impulse to look grateful.

When a girl is called to the telephone she answers it as if expecting an invitation to a party, but when her mother takes the receiver it is with the wonder what company is coming now.

When a woman tells her husband she is willing he shall marry again after her death, it is an indication that she is feeling in perfect health.

When a woman announces to her husband that she wants to have a "plain talk with him," it means she wants him to confess. A woman does love to see a man sinner on his knees.

When trouble comes it is the woman who does the cheering up. The average man, when he sees a cloud in the sky, hasn't enough ambition and fight left in him to open an umbrella.

The man who owes big financial debts never throws as much weight and worry into his tones as a woman when she relates that she Owes So Many Letters.

A hen never tries to spread her wings over her big, grown, rooster-sized son to protect him, but you will see mothers who haven't as much sense as the hen.

WHO PENNED THESE CRISP LINES EXPOSING SECRETS OF GREEN ROOM?

AND, AFTER ALL, WAS MAXINE ELLIOTT PIQUED OVER THEM—AND DID SHE REALLY ADOPT THIS DRUGLESS OBESITY REDUCTION TREATMENT?

If the gossip that recently leaked from the inner secrecy of the green room of a local theatre is to be accredited, who was it who wrote these lines—and did they go to Maxine Elliott and induce that remarkable actress to think about a comparison between girlish measurements and the lines of matronly splendor? At any rate, these are the lines in question:

"I want to be—want to be—want to be lean again;
I am just crazy to be fit to be seen again—
Oh, but it's frightful for me to be short of breath—
I ought to be slender, I'm sure I'd be pleased to death."

And the same rumor says that these lines were [illegible] last St. Valentine's Day, and so upset Miss [illegible] that [illegible] two resolves. The first [illegible] was to get even with the writer of the lines. The second was to be as [illegible] as she was in [illegible] days [illegible] through her art, and like a [illegible] beauty. Miss [illegible] splendid poetess has reached the very [illegible] perfection.

And the gossip [illegible] really was Miss Elliott has changed [illegible] said, it does not seem at all like the same Miss Elliott. I wonder what she did, and if she really used the new drugless reducing treatment.

"Ask Miss Hamilton—Miss Marjorie M. Hamilton, of Denver," another is said to have retorted. "She is the originator of the famous drugless treatment for fat reduction, you know. And, too, Miss Hamilton was one of the most widely known and highest priced photographic models in the country, and you know the story of what fat was doing to lose her the position she occupied?

"She just got busy and thought it all out—and now I am told on the most excellent authority, she has the wealthiest and most influential society ladies and actresses [illegible] the land sending for her drugless treatment, many using assumed names when ordering."

But Miss Hamilton refuses to be "pumped." She simply looks innocent, and says, "Did Miss Olga Nethersole really send that poetry to Miss Elliott? I can scarcely believe it—but, then, I have heard that Miss Elliott is slender and beautiful again [illegible] other return to beautiful lines, I mean."

CHASE & SANBORN'S HIGH GRADE TEAS & COFFEES

SAYS RICHESON SEEKS POISON

Clarence V. T. Richeson, [illegible] slayer of Avis Linnell, [illegible] Street Jail is eager to [illegible] of ending his own life, [illegible] to the statement of Patrick F. Hogan, a Boston barber, just released after serving a four months sentence in the course of which he many times shaved Richeson.

On one occasion, Hogan declares, the prisoner asked him:

"Do you know of any good druggist that you can trust?"

Hogan answered: "I know plenty of druggists, but I don't know any that I would trust."

Richeson turned away with a sigh and muttered.

"That's the way! That's the way! I can trust nobody—nobody."

Hogan reported the conversation to Sheriff Quinn. In the prisoner's words, the jail authorities see not only the evidence that Richeson's mind is bent on suicide, to escape the chair, but see also how his thoughts dwell constantly on the circumstances of his crime and arrest, [illegible] the druggist, Hahn, had reported to the authorities the pastor's poison purchase.

Hogan says he shaved Richeson as [illegible] as last Saturday afternoon, and that he has had many talks with him during two-minute periods in the latter's room. He said:

Prisoner Raves in Cell

"I believed last Wednesday, when Richeson said that to me, he was trying to see if he could get hold of some cyanide or other poison.

"Richeson has always treated me well and been generous with me in return for my shaving him, and when I first knew him at the jail I used [illegible]

"I have heard him fairly rave and [illegible] very [illegible] at [illegible]

"This constant complaint at his life is another reason why I believe he is plotting suicide at the first possible chance. Then in other ways without saying so directly Bittis has given me the distinct impression that Richeson had told him he was planning suicide.

"Richeson has not shown any signs of breakdown, mentally or physically, since I went to the jail four months ago. I should say he is in perfect condition, even better than several weeks ago.

"I only know of two things the matter with him. He complains of being able to sleep very little, and for the last week he has had such a hard cold and his throat is so hoarsed up he can scarcely speak at all, and I understand Dr. Sargent has forbidden him to try to speak for a while."

Say Richeson Insane.

Insanity of an unusual form will be described by alienists at the hearing before Governor Foss and the Executive Council, as sufficient reason to grant a petition to commute Richeson's sentence [illegible] death penalty. A disordered state [illegible] embracing legal irresponsibility will be the claim.

The mental experts' testimony will augment a volume of family history collected by Attorney John L. Lee of Virginia, who will return to Boston the latter part of next week. It is said Richeson's aged father will come on, despite his not writing his son a letter since the latter's confession.

"We will have evidence to show that Richeson has never been a normal man," says Attorney William A. Morse, "and [illegible] in the testimony of the alienists [illegible] experts, [illegible] to convince the [illegible] and through him the Council, [illegible] Richeson is not as responsible for [illegible] as a normal man would be.

"We make no secret of the fact that we base our hopes for the most part on the fact that Richeson confessed and saved the government untold money and trouble."

Eat What You Will, Food Makes Not Fat

It is a mistaken theory that food makes fat. It is not the food you eat but the way it is digested that makes fat. Your system produces digestive juices that turn good food into poor flesh and fat. Stop these juices from being made by your body and you stop making fat. The famous Marmola prescription which has created so much comment in our cities has been prepared in tablet form for the convenience of those who do not desire to take the liquid prescription. These little tablets when they reach the stomach stop the juices from working the wrong way. They renew those fluids and at once your food gives your body just what it wants and only what it needs. This is the secret of Marmola tablets. They will reduce the fat that is now on your person at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day and they will not cause you the least inconvenience or worry. You may eat early or late, you may sit still or run about, it will not make any difference. Just put a tablet in your purse or your pocket when you go out to a dinner. After each meal take one of the Marmola tablets and rest assured that the meal will not harm you or make you grow more stout. There will be no large wrinkles after your fat has fled. Your skin will be smooth and regular. These little tablets are sold at every drug store, or if your modesty will not permit you to ask for them at your druggist's you may receive a package from the makers. The Marmola Company, 180 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The price per large case of the Marmola tablets is 75 cents.

"Girls Go Hungry to Dress" Mrs. Beatley for Simplicity

MRS. CLARA B. BEATLEY

By SYBIL WARNE.

"Girls, don't be carried away with the remarks of the young men who say you look 'stunning' in your dress.

"Working girls often dress beyond their means.

"They impoverish their bodies to look pretty in some expensive wearing apparel.

"Mothers should train the young girl to be simple in her dress and neat, above everything else.

"Neatness is not expensive."

These are some of the points made by Mrs. Clara B. Beatley of the Sex Education Association, which has just been organized in this city and has headquarters at No. 7 Hancock avenue.

Mrs. Beatley has long been lecturing to girls in the schools of Massachusetts. She believes many a working girl is wearing herself out in her desire to dress in a way beyond her means.

"Yes, it's true the working girl generally [illegible] for her clothing," and Mrs. [illegible] into the attractive [illegible] a small salary, barely enough to take care of her board and lodging if she lives away from home, but it is generally these girls who have to restrain themselves. They have to compete with the girl who lives at home, gets a small wage, but puts most of her money on her back.

"It is in the home this restraint in dressing should be taught. Girls should be brought up to look neat and be simple in their dress. This is more possible with the girl who lives in the country than with the girl who lives in the large city. The latter sees more, and consequently wants more.

"To teach the girl what she should have in the way of dress devolves upon the mother. She can do this more effectively than anyone else. There is no more important factor in the home life than a careful mother. What she is, her children generally will be.

"This whole matter of overdressing on the part of the girls who really cannot afford it must be corrected in early life and if mothers would be more careful in dressing their young daughters in a simple, but neat and attractive way, some of the errors in the grown-up girls might be corrected.

"The little girl in the home is made conscious that she looks well in a fine dress, which in many cases may be overtrimmed to satisfy a whim of the mother, and that girl is not taught restraint, she is likely to grow up and sacrifice everything, even her health, to dress.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR "CURES" THE NEW YORK WORLD COMMENTING ON THESE SO-CALLED "CURES"

Says—They "have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands."

The New York World, conceded by journalists everywhere as one of the most independent, fearless newspapers devoted to the public welfare, published an article of interest to women about depilatories. While it commends very highly a well known depilatory, it also points out the imposition practised by unscrupulous manufacturers of so-called superfluous hair "cures." It is reprinted in part. Read it:

"Unscrupulous manufacturers have played on her faith and ignorance and have made their fortunes decade after decade by publishing erroneous statements and unfounded claims concerning the alleged efficacy of their methods or agencies to eradicate unnecessary hair. The vital importance of having the treatment non-poisonous, antiseptic and germicidal was not recognized. The fakes put on the market in the last ten years have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands. Empty promises have been made by scores of promoters in the wild scramble to get the money. The marvel is that woman has not become so thoroughly disgusted as to reject all treatments for good.

"But her hope for a remedy was not in vain, * * * only a few years ago the now well known DeMiracle treatment was brought forth and it proved to be a revelation in modern science. A representative of the New York World investigated the discovery and the methods by which it was introduced to the public. He found exhaustive tests have shown it to be the long-desired, practical, expeditious and safe way in which to destroy the growth of hair. Those who put it before the public knew the fallacy and dishonesty of publishing extravagant claims. They did not resort to any catch schemes, such as making a prospective customer a special offer of 'personal interest.' They started in to win the confidence of those interested, and in this way they have been eminently successful.

"The news of its remarkable qualities spread rapidly. It is now known and widely used from coast to coast and from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. What is more to the point, it has been indorsed by prominent physicians, representative medical journals and leading magazines devoted to woman's cause. There is too much at stake to risk such indorsements if they are not true to the letter. Only the result of repeated chemical experiments and a thorough knowledge of the [illegible] of all hair growth could stand against the investigation of such authorities. The DeMiracle Chemical Company is open and above board in every detail. The indorsements are not just claimed. A little probing on the part of the PAPER disclosed the fact that they are published and sent broadcast, with the identity and address of the writer or publication added. This is the stumbling block of all so-called remedies. A reputable member of the medical profession or a publication in good standing could never afford to be identified with anything that savors of a fake, and the voluntary praise given through these channels is not to be bought with money. It is given on the strength of conviction * * * There is no evidence wanting to prove that DeMiracle is worthy of its reputation * * * It was found by the representative of THE WORLD that among prominent department and drug stores of New York City the use of DeMiracle was lauded on all sides. The proprietor of one of the largest of these establishments said: 'The sale of DeMiracle is constantly increasing and we hear nothing but praise for it all the time.' Like expressions were echoed by the others."

For years we have been cautioning women against being defrauded by so-called superfluous hair "cures." In spite of all warning, it seems that some are always willing to be humbugged, because, as the World says: "The fakes put on the market in the last ten years have numbered their victims by the hundreds of thousands." The mere fact that fake-dangerous preparations are short lived should alone be sufficient warning to avoid the use of any depilatory but that of proven merit.

It is astonishing that some women will take the risk of disfigurement by using unknown and uncertain means for removing these blemishes when there is such a safe method as DeMiracle, which is acknowledged by eminent and reputable authorities everywhere as the standard depilatory—the one absolutely non-poisonous preparation that dissolves hair, thereby taking the vitality out of it, consequently retarding and preventing an increased growth.

If further proof is needed as to the reliability of DeMiracle, no stronger argument can be advanced than the fact that it is the only depilatory that has stood the test of time.

There was more of it sold ten years ago and there has been more of it sold each year since than the combined sales of the nostrums.

All reliable dealers sell and recommend DeMiracle, knowing it to be the best and safest depilatory. Some unprincipled ones will tell you they cannot procure it so that they may more easily influence you to purchase their own, or possibly some other dangerous, worthless substitute under another label for a few cents more profit. To protect you from just such imposition, if your dealer will not supply you, mail us $1.00 and we will send you, all charges paid, in plain, sealed wrapper, a $1.00 bottle of DeMiracle, and we will make you a present of a 25c jar of DeMiracle Cream. If you care to, give us the name of the dealer who tries to sell you a "just as good" imitation or substitute.

Write for free booklet, which will be mailed sealed in plain envelope. DeMiracle Chemical Company, Dept. S 11, Park ave., 129th and 130th sts., New York.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says, "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood. Eczema is a skin disease." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well-known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria."

themselves. I am placed in a [illegible] the engagement [illegible] DIE AN OLD MAID.

A PERPLEXED MAID."

A terrible fate [illegible]. No wonder "Perplexed Maid" [illegible] prospect with alarm [illegible] man she doesn't love to [illegible]

A Terrible Life!

Let us consider [illegible] a spinster leads these [illegible] her own income [illegible] dependent on father, or [illegible] as was the [illegible] ago.

She does not [illegible] because of her failure to become a wife. She is not an upper servant, with none of the right of a lower servant, in the family of any relative.

She has her home, her friends, her position in business and social life. When she is bored with her own company, she has the privilege of seeking others.

Few are care-free in this world. The Lord didn't intend any one should be, but the spinster comes as near to being care-free as any human being can come. She is happy, with it all, and usually devotes much energy and time to making others happy.

You are afraid, my dear girl, that you may reach the uncertain age which means the dividing line between maidhood and spinsterdom; you are afraid that some day you may become one of these happy, self-reliant, hopeful and helpful "old maids." This fear causes you to remain engaged for four years to a man you do not love, whose company you can not enjoy, and who bores you.

If he bores you before marriage, when there is bound to be some illusion, what will your life be after you are his wife, and all illusion has been dispelled?

My dear girl, you couldn't make a more serious mistake than marrying a man toward whom you sustain such feeling. You are wronging him to let the engagement continue, and you are wronging yourself.

Content With Half.

He has been faithful and true to a half-hearted love for four years, and deserves something better than the belated truth you owe him. He has been so determined to win you, that he has let you see he would be content with half a loaf of love if he can not get the whole.

Doubtless he is a good man, as you say. Humility is a characteristic of goodness. But if he had been less patient, more domineering and more of a MAN and less of a Sheep, I am sure he could have won [illegible]

When you suggested you were unsuited, he should have given you the right to your belief, and transferred his slave-like devotion elsewhere.

When you have let him see, which I do not doubt you have your absorbing fear of "Dying an old maid," he should have been man enough to refuse to marry any girl so old-fashioned foolish.

He owes something to himself. He owes it to himself to be no woman's husband, when that woman marries him for no other reason than that he opens a way to escape spinsterhood.

You will not wreck his life if you break the engagement. He has been engaged to you so long [illegible] sort of habit [illegible] hurts to break [illegible] heart doesn't [illegible] long.

The Latest Dances and How to Dance Them

The "Whirlwind" a Stage Sensation. Novel Movements [illegible] Others Barred to Amateurs.

The "See-Saw," a pretty waltz pose, easy to learn.

"THE GIANT SWING"—A THRILLING FEAT, TAKING YEARS OF PRACTISE TO PERFECT, BUT WHICH AMATEUR DANCERS SHOULD NEVER ATTEMPT.

By ETHEL MILLER

HOW do I dance the whirlwind?

Well, really my mind begins to spin around at the thought of telling you just as my feet go when I'm dancing it.

Can I describe it to you so that my words will convey exactly how this dance is performed? And then can I arrange the dance so that an ordinary untrained dancer can perform it? Well, I think so, and, at any rate, I am going to try.

In the first place I shall advise you right away not to attempt any of the acrobatic "stunts" that my partner and I do as "The Marvellous Millers" in "Over the River." Anyone who was not trained to do these things, and it takes years of hard work to get that training, might hurt themselves very seriously in trying it. So don't.

There are several good tricks that you can do, and after you become easy in doing them, and acquire speed, as we call it, you will be quite surprised what a good imitation whirlwind you will dance.

When you are practicing this dance wear loose clothing and shoes in which you will not slip. After some practice you can wear regular dancing shoes and ordinary evening frocks if they are loose and the frocks are not spangled. The dance is so wild that almost any kind of thin dress gets torn, so I warn you.

Practice the dance as if it were a gymnastic game quite as much as a dance, and, indeed, it is.

Study the Music

We use a good waltz for the number and, of course, we studied our music quite as carefully as you would study the architecture of a house you were going to decorate or the plans of a garden you were going to plant.

People who dance to music with which they are not thoroughly familiar, never give a smooth performance, no matter how clever they are.

Well, we start in with an ordinary waltz and when every one says "my, just a waltz," we suddenly begin to whirl madly about. My partner grasping me by the waist and I hold him around the neck. Of course, this can't be done by the amateur, and it shouldn't even be tried. The art consists in leaping up very lightly and disguising the fact that you weigh more than a pound or two or on bowing acquaintance with the law of gravity.

Next comes a very simple trick which anyone can do with a little practice. Holding hands and facing each other we whirl around in a circle without changing the position of our feet except for tiny steps around an imaginary pivot.

We lean back as far as possible and gather more and more momentum until we can hardly be distinguished.

Some Pretty Poses

This is the "Human Top" and when it is done at full speed is dangerous because a loosened hand or a foot slipping would cause a pretty severe accident, but you can get a good effect from the "top" by spinning it slowly.

When you feel yourself getting dizzy, as you do at first, turn the other way. At a given signal stop together and assume a pretty position or pose as it is called in dancing. The position ought to denote perfect ease, and one of the best and simplest is to stand perfectly still, the girl with her hands on her hips, the man with his behind his back or in his pockets in a sort of languid attitude as if one had not been dancing until one was giddy.

This pose gives you time to recover breath and bearing and begin a new waltz, which is like the regular waltz excepting for the position of the hands.

I place my right hand behind me, clasping my partner's right hand, which is around my waist. My left hand is placed on his right shoulder but in such a way as not to impede his movements. My left arm must be perfectly loose. My partner's left hand is on my right elbow, ready to give me a push at the beginning of the twirl. Suddenly I loosen my hold of his shoulder, he pushing me with his left hand. We hold fast with our right hands, and, keeping in perfect time to the music, we unwind, that is I take six short steps to two bars of the music, twirl to the right so that my partner holds me at arm's length. After dancing a few measures separated in this way, but, of course, still holding each other's right hands with a pull on the first beat of the bar of music, my partner jerks me back to my original position close to him. We unwind or twirl again as often as we like, and gaining more and more speed all the time, finally I unwind and wind like lightning, and we finish this part of the dance with big whirlwind leaps, my partner being the pivot, holding me firmly by one hand while I whirl at topmost speed, barely touching the floor.

This, of course, is not for the amateur dancer. Nor is the other finish to the twirl to be recommended. Here, having unravelled from the close waltz embrace, I bend backward, touching the floor behind me with my arm as seen in the picture.

On the other hand a very pretty and artistic part of the dance consists in the See-Saw, which is done by standing back to back, arms extended, hands clasped. Waltz for several bars in this way, making very short steps.

Loosen the left hand and bring the lady back into the first position of the twirl. Once again unwind, as described before, only reverse the step, the man turning his back to the lady's back, clasp hands and See-Saw with a distinct motion [illegible] the waist, lowering and raising [illegible] arms.

Our dance ends with a big acrobatic feat done at top speed, the orchestra playing as fast as they can to keep up with us and I whirling madly about the stage held by one hand only. This, I don't advise you to try. There is plenty of work for you if you learn the Twirl, the See-Saw and the simpler steps of the Whirlwind Dance.

The Manicure Lady

"I THINK it is just shameful the way they are imprisoning them girls over in London, and the way they are acting over the coal strike over there, and the way Mister Roosevelt is knocking Mister Taft and the way Mister Taft is reciprocating and the way they are acting over in Russia."

The Head Barber looked at the complaining Manicure Lady for perhaps as much as three seconds. "I see," he said finally. "Is there anything else that seems shameful to you this bright Spring morning?"

"I think it is a shame about them Alex still being 'hounded,'" said the Manicure Lady. "They are making their last stand, and it seems to me as if the [illegible] ought to let them go without no life sentence. The old gent was saying just last night that it was kind of pitiful—that last stand—like the last stand of a gent that swore he had played his last game of poker. You see, George, the old gent swore a [illegible] vow the time he married mother that he would never draw a card again, even if he was drawing to a straight flush open at both ends. But George, I must say that the way the old gent has been dallying with them paste boards is nothing but a sin and a shame. [illegible] family [illegible] George. "You think so?" asked the Head Barber.

"I know it," said the Manicure Lady. "And I think it is a shame that Mister Roosevelt gets only seven votes out of a possible ninety. That great and good man deserves something better than that from the people that he has fought so hard and so long, whether at San Juan hill or at Wall street. I think it is a shame."

"I don't think anything is a shame any more," said the Head Barber. "Now that the baseball season is coming on, I think that we ought to be happy. Just think what a joy it will be for us to be out there at the ball grounds before long, watching Joe Wood sending the first white ball over the plate, with thirty thousand fans yelling. Can you beat that?"

"I don't care much for it," declared the Manicure Lady.

"What?" asked the Head Barber. "You mean that you can't understand the beauty of a scene at a ball park at the beginning of the season? You mean that you can't get real enjoyment out of the sights and the sounds that go with a game between the Red Sox and the Athletics—the cheers, the green grass, and everything?"

"I don't like it, I tell you," said the Manicure Lady. "The way they treat the [illegible] is a shame!"

"Good by, Lady Gloom," said the Head Barber. "Here comes a gent that needs [illegible] taping."

Work to Be Done

HOW SOME MEN DO IT.

By THOMAS TAPPER

I

IN a recent issue of a magazine on mechanics, a writer relates an incident that may well be thought upon by every one who works, for in it there lies the whole gospel of the way to do it.

The train in which I was riding the other day was delayed by a block signal. We stopped in a freight yard and the view from my window was quite uninviting, with long rows of dingy box cars, many of which were battered and needed painting. The surroundings were anything but promising as objects for study. Snow, which had fallen the night before, had partly melted, and directly opposite the window was a pond of the liquid slush about the length of a freight car and six feet wide. One set of trucks of a box car came opposite the middle of the big puddle and could only be reached by wading.

Presently a figure came down the track carrying a can of oil and a bucket of waste. It was the car oiler. He was poorly dressed, his shoes had burst open at the sides, and well—he scarcely answered the picture we paint of the stuff from which heroes are made. As he advanced each axle box was opened and oil or waste put in as required. What would he do with the box at the middle of the pond? He came to the water, hesitated only an instant, and then waded in, the icy liquid coming up to his shoe tops, for it was deep. The box was opened; it required little attention, only a few drops of oil, and then he passed on to the next.

"He might have taken a chance on that one single box; the probabilities were all in favor of the car going through to the next division station without causing any delay or damage. On the other hand, the box might as likely have been dry, and when the train had travelled ten or twenty miles have gone hot, compelling a stop not on schedule, at a place where another train following expected a clear track, and a wreck have been the result."

II

A carpenter engaged to lay the foundation of a building took trouble, and incidentally lost a little money, by putting in cypress logs and joining them as carefully as he joined and bolted the sills. Some one said to him:

"Why do you take so much trouble with what is to be buried out of sight?"

"Well," he replied, "some day in the future when I am dead and they dig this up again I want them to say: 'Old man, Jacobs, was certainly a good workman. He took as much pains with this foundation as he did with the building.'"

The name of this sentiment is Pride in the Work.

Hugh Miller, the Scotch geologist, said that the master to whom he was apprenticed as a stonecutter put his conscience into every stone he laid.

An American traveller tells of watching a Japanese artist at work on a vase.

"How long have you been at work on this?" he asked.

"Four years," replied the Japanese.

"And will you not be sorry to part with it after working on it so long a time?"

"No," answered the artist, "for I expect the next one to be even more beautiful than this."

This is, again, Pride in the Work.

III

It is safe to say that if every human being would take Pride in the Work for just twenty-four hours, the face of the world would change. And, better than that, every face on the earth would change too.

The curse of the idle rich may be great, but the curse of half-done work is a tragedy still more terrible. It cheats the work of its just due, and it cheats the worker.

The lesson is plain enough when we apply it to the soil of the earth. A man gets what he plants and cares for exactly in proportion as he plants with wisdom and cares for his planting, with honest labor and patience. If he dodges these two issues, nature yields him little. And he knows why.

And the "why" is this: He gets more out of nature only as he gives more out of himself.

Now, the same rule applies in everything else.

But we do not see it, and so we cheat in the work, which means that we cheat ourselves.

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

I.—CHASING THE CZAR.

Desmond, having disguised himself as the Czar after stealing a travelling actor's make-up, is now finding that he has brought trouble upon himself. Claude, at the command of the Nihilists, is forced to chase the Czar with a large bomb, and Desmond now finds that his best speed is needed. Uneasy runs the man who fears a bomb.

II.—THE LITTLE FATHER.

Sprinting ahead of his pursuers, Desmond, in the guise of the Czar, reaches the Siberian frontier. Here the guards, as they see the villain approach them on the run, think they are in the presence of the Little Father and salute our old acquaintance, the great international crook. 'Twill be a bad day for Claude and Rosamond if they interfere with Desmond now.

III.—TO THE MINES.

Thinking that Desmond is the great Czar, the guardsmen are only too eager to do his bidding. So when Claude and Rosamond, in hot pursuit of the villain, arrive on the scene they are instantly made prisoners and at the behest of the spurious monarch they are quickly started upon the route to the fatal mines in which the unhappy convicts toil during their sentences in dread Siberia.

IV.—AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

In the Colonel's room Desmond is making himself at home. Nothing is too good for the Czar. The best coffee and the most comfortable chair in the fort are set out for him and the scoundrel is feeling well pleased with the world, when an orderly comes in with the unwelcome news that one of the grand dukes "is without." "Without what?" Without money, of course.

V.—A HURRY TOUCH.

Grand dukes are always busted. Seldom can they hold a kopeck more than two minutes. When they do get hold of any kale they spend it right away. And since Desmond knows this well he makes a quick guess as to the reason for the grand duke's visit to him at this time. Digging up two dollars he hands it over to the duke.

VI.—BETRAYED BY MONEY.

American money! Even the dull intellect of a grand duke notices something strange about this. The Czar seldom, if ever, goes around with two one-dollar bills in his pocket and the g. d. promptly snatches the whiskery disguise from the shrinking villain. Desmond is put in bad by his own plan to ruin Claude Eclaire. Tomorrow we shall see his fate.

GROCERS STAND BY DR. WILEY

Regrets for the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley from his position as pure food expert, were the features of the report of the Committee on Resolutions at the eighth annual convention of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers' and Provision Dealer's Association in Faneuil Hall. The report says:

"We regret the resignation of Dr. Wiley as head of the great governmental department that has to do with the enforcement of the National Food and Drug Act. He has filled his difficult office honestly and energetically. We call for a reorganization of this department, the removal of unscientific officials and the appointment as head of the Bureau of Chemistry of an honest, fearless executive. We again urge the enactment of uniform food laws in the several States, laws that are in unison with the National law."

Several men of prominence addressed the convention, among them being Lieutenant-Governor Luce and Mayor Fitzgerald.

F. W. Meadum of Roxbury was re-elected president, L. Q. Ball of Springfield was chosen a vice-president; the others holding this office being re-elected, as was the board of directors.

DRAWTENDER SAVES MAN FROM DROWNING IN NEPONSET RIVER

John H. Nelson, a drawtender of the New Haven railroad bridge, rescued from drowning in the Neponset river N. C. Martin, a derrick engineer, who had fallen from the girders of the new structure after tripping over a newly set rivet.

Several yards away from the bridge, Nelson grasped the drowning man and, tugging him slowly back, reached a rope which had been hurled to him, just as he was about to give up his burden, exhausted.

Martin was revived and left for his home in Hyde Park. Nelson lives at No. 5 Phillips street, Neponset.

AUTO MEN FIGHT NEW TAX BILLS

By J. C. KERRISON.

Those who object to any change in the automobile registration fee will now have to work upon the feelings of their Senators and Representatives in the Legislature, as the Committee on Roads and Bridges has reported favorably on a bill providing for a registration fee of $5 flat for all motor vehicles of ten horsepower or less and a fee of fifty cents a horsepower for vehicles of more than ten horsepower.

The manufacturers' and dealers' registration fee has also received a change, as in the provision of this proposed law they will be forced to pay a $25 fee for one car and $5 for each additional car.

This will prove a hardship to the manufacturers and dealers, especially so to those who have eight or ten sets of numbers.

Another bill which has been recommended is one which prohibits the operation over highways and bridges of trucks and traction engines carrying four tons, at a speed exceeding ten miles an hour, and for vehicles carrying eight tons, the speed is limited to six miles an hour. The penalty for the violation of this clause is a fine of from $100 to $500.

A fight on both measures is sure, as the motor interests throughout the country are generally opposed to both propositions, the feeling being that under the present law the motorists are already contributing their full share towards the maintenance of the roads.

Milwaukee has been awarded the Vanderbilt and the Grand Prize races for this year, it having promised suitable military protection for the drivers and public during this contest. The Motors Holding Company, at its meeting on Tuesday, made the final award. It is understood that every effort will be made to hold one of the races on Labor Day or between that date and October 5.

It is understood that Colonel Gustavus Pabst has offered a cup and money for a third international race held in conjunction with the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize.

* * *

In view of Barney Oldfield's published declaration, when he was suspended, that he was through with racing, his decision to enter the great race at Santa Monica is somewhat surprising.

Oldfield has entered the contest and will drive a Fiat, one of the three which ran as the team in the last Grand Prize race. Caleb Bragg and Huelett will drive the other two cars.

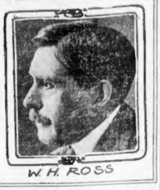
TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

Copper Shares Advance in the Boston Market

By W. H. ROSS.



W. H. ROSS

STATE STREET, April 11.—Midday—The tone of the Boston market was firm at the opening, with Granby, Mayflower, Calumet & Arizona and Butte & Superior among the copper shares to sell higher. Before noon Granby had advanced 2⅜ points, North Butte was up 1½. Adventure 1*, Butte Superior a point, Superior 1¼, and Copper Range 1½. Lake was fractionally higher.

Irregularity characterized the New York market at the beginning. Canadian Pacific soon advanced more than 4 points to 250¾, the highest quotation it has attained since it sold ex-stock rights.

Copper stocks were heavy there, at the opening, but soon strengthened.

New York and London Markets.

Canadian Pacific was the spectacular feature of the New York market at the opening, going 3½ higher than last night's final quotation at the start. Then it climbed ⅝ higher still on more heavy buying. The hard coal carriers were strong too. It was heard that there is an improvement in the outlook for settling the differences between miners and operators. Erie common gained ¾, while a similar advance was made in Reading. B. & O. rose ¼ and Lehigh was ⅛ up.

Prices moved somewhat irregularly at the outset. Steel common opened ¼ lower but later rallied slightly. Amalgamated was off ⅛ at the start but made up the loss and gained ¼ within 5 minutes. American Smelting was unchanged. The Harriman issues were listless. Southern Pacific was unchanged and Union Pacific gained ¼.

The Curb was steady.

In London American railway shares sold above New York parity and there was a demand for Grand Trunk issues. The introduction of home rule as the dominating political issue had a rather unsettling effect upon the securities market in general. Mining shares were heavy. Rio Tintos sold down ⅛ to 77¾. The London copper metal market opened strong with spot at £60 16s. 3d., and futures £70 13s. 9d., each 10s. higher.

Views on Steel Tonnage Report.

The report made by the United States Steel Corporation about its unfilled orders at the end of March did not cause any surprise and it had been quite accurately forecasted by many persons and publications. It was a better showing than people who are bearishly inclined had predicted. Now they can give their attention to depressing estimates of what Steel earnings will total for the first quarter. Those who might be said to be in a position to get "inside" information say they will surely be above $20,000,000.

The Steel corporation is doing business enough to be making all kinds of money, if prices for products were a little bit higher. As soon as prices were advanced a shade it was said that orders fell off. However, it is a fact that the steel plants are now running on a 90 per cent. or more capacity basis, and it is estimated that shipments are around the neighborhood of 1,000,000 tons a month. Business in general in the United States has improved much within a year. That is conclusively shown by the fact that the unfilled orders of this great barometer were 1,857,540 tons more at the end of March this year than they were at the end of that month in 1911. It is said that steel plants during the last week of last March were operating at 93 per cent. capacity. The Iron Age says:

"The United States Steel Corporation's statement of unfilled orders as of March 31, given out Wednesday, shows a decrease of 149,359 tons in the month. This in the light of the heavy operations of plant last month and the higher quotations in the second half of March, bears a favorable interpretation. Since April 1 the bookings of the corporation have been at the rate of nearly 50,000 tons a day, as against 35,000 tons last March.

"Reports from some of the other steel companies do not make as good a comparison with March, but there is more unanimity as to sales of steel bars at 1.15c. Pittsburg, and of structural shapes and plates at 1.20c. In the Chicago district 1.30c. for bars is more common and 1.35c. for plates and shapes, representing a differential of 15 cents per 100 pounds, instead of the 18-cent freight charge from Pittsburg. Five open-hearth furnaces of the No. 1 plant at Gary have been started up, but in spite of increased capacity orders in the Chicago district in March were in excess of shipments.

"The question how far consumers of finished steel are covered for the second quarter is variously answered. There are indications that the implement trade will need to buy bars before June, and some negotiations are now up, that were postponed until after the government's crop report for April.

"A large amount of work in structural lines is being figured on, but the persistence of low prices for fabricating is still the outstanding fact in this trade. Capacity has grown, particularly among smaller firms, even under the galling competition of the past two years."

A New Standard Oil Merger?

There is talk in financial circles to the effect that several Standard Oil subsidiaries intend to merge as soon as it is both wise and convenient to do so, and that exceedingly alert and well informed attorneys are of the opinion that a number of them can do so without acting in contempt of the dissolution order of the United States Supreme Court. Such rumors have been heard in certain quarters for some time, and they got wide circulation when it became known that there had been incorporated in Delaware an enterprise known as the Southern Oilfields Company.

It has capital authorization to the extent of $50,000,000. In Dover, Delaware, it was said last night by D. E. McWhinney, one of the incorporators, when he was asked if the new company was formed to take over Standard Oil business, that he knew of no foundation for such rumors and he is also quoted as saying he has "no information about the purposes of the new corporation."

Now, when an incorporator does not know what he is incorporating for, what can be said or thought about the matter anyway?

From New York comes news of what is termed there as "another instance of the beneficent results of enforcement of the Sherman act." This refers to the action of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, a Standard Oil concern, in raising the price of crude oil two cents a gallon. There is some humor in the remark "it is expected that other oil companies will meet the advance." When competition increases prices one certainly must admit that the new school of economists could show the old follows a lot.

On top of the rise in the price of oil comes the rumor from a source friendly to Rockefeller interests that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will soon pay 20 per cent. on its $30,000,000 capitalization. The capital was recently increased $29,000,000. This is the company which was fined $29,000,000, but paid that amount to its stockholders in the form of "melon" cutting, but not one cent to Uncle Sam.

Daniel G. Reid on Business.

That eminent financier Daniel G. Reid is an optimist. To the New York American he expressed the opinion that the country had reached the turning point and is moving towards better business. As favorable signs he referred to crop prospects, a better demand for iron and steel products and large orders by railroads for cars and other equipment. About the political situation he said: "The consensus of opinion seems to be that conservative candidates will be nominated for President by both parties. In this event, the general business of the country should go ahead rapidly."

All this, Mr. Reid says, commands attention. He is a dominating factor in the Rock Island system, and therefore informed as to conditions in the West, while through the Lehigh Valley road and his banking connections he gets into direct touch with all classes of business.

He Says Butter Can Be Made Directly from Grass—Perhaps It Can

It Can Be Made More Satisfactorily from Cows' Milk, However. And Therein Is a Lesson for Vegetarians

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

You know how we get our butter.

The frost, the rain, the wind and the power of gravitation bring the crumbling rock down into the valley. Time, chemical changes, earthworms, etc., produce the soil.

The grass eats the soil and grows.

The cow eats the grass and grows.

The cow gives milk; we take the milk, churn it, we have butter. We eat the butter—and then we grow, having secured for the building up of our blood, quickly and easily, the work OF THE WIND, AND THE FROST, AND THE RAIN, AND THE EARTHWORMS, AND THE EARTH, AND THE GRASS, AND THE COW.

In five minutes, sweeping butter over a piece of bread, we do what took thousands of centuries before the soil was formed, all Spring for the grass to grow, and several years for the cow to grow up.

We get it all in five minutes.

Now, along comes a scientist and tells us that we might make butter directly from grass. Perhaps we could if it were worth while, perhaps we SHALL do so some day, when cows and all the lower animals cease to exist, as they may and as they will.

We might even make butter, if we knew how, directly from the earth itself. For, after all, if the cow gets the butter from the grass, and the grass gets the butter from the earth, science might skip the cow and the grass and get butter from the soil.

But it is better just at present to let the grass eat the earth, and let the cow get butter from the grass, and we get it from the cow.

There is here a lesson for vegetarians. They have an idea that they ought to eat grass instead of eating the cow. They might almost as well try to get good results by eating the earth instead of eating the grass.

This is the age of time-saving devices. And a beefsteak is a time-saving device.

Let the grass grow for one year, let the cow grow for four years, then you eat the cow and save time, save your stomach, your energy, and put into brain work the time that you would have to put into digesting an imitation vegetarian beefsteak made out of nuts and other second-rate food.

Vegetarianism in a grown person is silly. It is harmful and dangerous in a grown person compelled to use his brain. Tolstoi, Wagner and all other really active minds that have tried it have been compelled to give up vegetarianism.

Nothing but vegetables will do for a man rowing a boat on the Nile—he is often quoted as a healthy vegetarian—or for a guide in the Alps hauling beef-fed Englishmen uphill.

Men that row boats and men that drag tourists uphill only need to develop good muscles and fairly good nerves.

They don't have to use their minds. It may be said of them as the farmer said of his pig: "What difference does it make how long it takes this pig to digest his food?"

But a man who must use his brain at high pressure and who therefore wants to have his stomach working and using the blood supply for as few hours as possible, needs MEAT, the time-saving device.

To inflict vegetarianism upon a child—except a very young child living largely upon milk—which is meat in another form—is a crime against the child. It should be prevented by law.

When you realize that among the savage nations of the past only those that practiced cannibalism conquered, because they alone gave their children plenty of meat to eat, YOU CAN REALIZE THAT IT IS FOOLISH TO CONDEMN YOUR OWN CHILD TO THE VEGETARIAN SYSTEM, to the sort of life led by the pappooses of the clay diggers and other inferior tribes of Indians that didn't have any meat and that were always, therefore, frightened to death when they saw a meat-eating Indian come around.

Don't be a vegetarian. Eat meat once a day at least, not oftener than twice daily.

The Automobile Will Make Us More Humane

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

One of the commonest and most disagreeable sights in a big city is that of a strong, brutal human being beating a weak and overworked horse because it refuses to do what it cannot do.

Brutality inflicted upon horses is atrocious. But the bad effect of such unkind treatment of animals on HUMAN CHARACTER is far more serious than the actual physical suffering inflicted.

The perfection of the automobile will do much to improve human beings by taking away from their control and from brutal coercion submissive animals.

Everybody knows that the moral standard is raised immediately in a country when slavery is abolished.

In America we have abolished the slavery of human beings, but we still adhere to horse slavery, accompanied by all the worst forms of the old negro slavery. The faithful slave may be beaten and driven to death. The driver MUST BE BRUTALIZED,

The Woes of Neglected Wives and Making Matrimony Interesting

By DOROTHY DIX

IN the course of a year I get hundreds of letters from neglected wives telling me their tales of woe. Everyone of these letters is soaked in tears and dripping with the very life blood of a broken-hearted wife. They are tragedy itself, and yet, at the same time, they are sardonically humorous in their lack of reason and refusal to accept the logic of a situation.

For after reciting the wrongs she endures at her husband's hands—after enumerating his brutalities to her; after telling that he never speaks to her, except to abuse and insult her; after relating that he has tired of her and forsaken her for some other woman, and that he spends his money rioting with his companions, leaving her and the children to half starve, and after writing that he, perhaps, beats her in his furies when she remonstrates with him for his conduct—the woman almost invariably winds up by saying:

"What can I do? I don't want to leave my husband, because, in spite of the way he treats me, I love him still."

Isn't that the inscrutable feminine at its most wildly mysterious moments? Can there be anything more curious than that a woman should love a man who so mistreated her? Or could there be anything more cynically funny than that a woman should blandly ask for some reliable recipe for changing her husband's nature, and converting him from a rounder or a beast into a loving, tender domestic spouse?

She Should Endure His Treatment Without Whining

You don't know whether to weep over such a woman or to laugh at her. But it is easy enough to answer her question.

What shall a wife do who is married to a man who neglects her and ill-treats her, but who still loves him so much that she doesn't want to leave him?

The answer is—stand it without whining. If you have no more spirit than the whipped dog that licks the hand that beats it, at least forbear to disturb other people's peace by howling about your grievances.

To a decent, dignified woman, with any shred of self-respect there are but two courses open in dealing with a husband who neglects and abuses her. One is to pack her trunk and get up and leave him. And the other is, if she stays with him, to cover her bruises from the gaze of the world, and to bear her troubles in silence. It's up to her to either hike out and leave the conditions that she finds so afflicting, or else to put up a bluff at liking them, but she hasn't any right to stand being neglected, and then bedew the innocent bystander with her tears over an unfaithful husband.

No Wife Can Change the Nature of Her Husband

As for a wife changing the attitude of her husband who neglects her, and who is surly and grouchy, and niggardly to her, that's an impossibility. No wife can work that miracle. It takes some other woman to do it, and I myself have seen a brutal husband who had literally killed two gentle, refined, delicate wives by his cruelty, so tamed and henpecked by a third wife that he dared not call his soul his own.

No! No woman can alter, by so much as a hair's breadth, the way her husband treats her after he has fallen into the habit of tyrannizing over her and abusing her, but any woman with a grain of sense and the backbone of an angle worm can prevent herself from ever becoming the victim of a bully.

Every wife decides just how her husband shall treat her, and she gets just what is coming to her. If she will stand for insults and being sworn at, she will be sworn at and insulted, but if she insists on being treated as a lady, she gets the respect due a lady. If, from her very wedding day, she insists upon a fair share of her husband's income she will get it, but if she stays in the background, and wears the made-over clothes while he flaunts about in joyous raiment, she will always be left at home while he goes abroad to enjoy himself.

If a young wife begins meeting a husband at the door with a sweet smile, and an ice pack when he comes home drunk, she'll have to keep doing it till the end of the chapter; if she forgives him every time he goes side-stepping, and loves him still, he won't think it worth while to be faithful to her, but if he knows that he has either got to walk straight or face divorce proceedings, it's the narrow path for him.

The only reason on earth that women, as a class, are more moral than men is because men have forced them to be. A man does not forgive an erring wife, and therefore women behave themselves, whereas the woman shuts her eyes to her husband's frailties, and he takes advantage of this to do as he pleases.

In my opinion the chief reason that men get tired of their wives is because the wives haven't got enough spirit and independence to make the matrimonial game interesting. It's human nature not to value those who hold themselves cheaply, and no woman ever does a more fatal thing for her own good than when she lets her husband find out that he can use her as he pleases, and she will meekly overlook it, and that her love is of the kind that nothing will kill.

Men Love Women Who Demand Most of Them

The women men love, and are faithful to, are the capricious, hard-to-please ladies, whose affections are as slippery as an eel, and if you will look about you, you will observe that the wives who demand most of their husbands not only get it, but have the husbands who are most devoted.

The foregoing remarks are intended as tips to young wives. The old wife who can still love a man who neglects and abuses her is not a subject for newspaper advice. She is a study for alienists.

Destruction of Birds for Women

—AND—

Substitutes for Murderous Millinery

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

NOW, while the agitation of woman's rights is going on, let all women give a thought to the rights of birds in God's beautiful world.

The season for Spring hats is here.

And here is a little extract from some statistics given by Henry Salt, in his booklet, "Animals' Rights," published in London:

"One dealer in London is said to have received as a single consignment 32,000 dead humming birds, 80,000 aquatic birds and 800,000 pairs of wings. A Parisian dealer had a contract for 40,000 birds, and an army of murderers were turned out to supply the order. No less than 40,000 terns have been sent from Long Island in one season for millinery purposes. At one auction alone in London there were sold 404,389 West Indian and Brazilian bird skins, and 356,389 East Indian, besides thousands of pheasants and birds of paradise."

The meaning of such statistics is simply that the women of Europe and America have given an order for the ruthless extermination of birds.

Due to Lack of Belief That Animals Have Rights

It is not seriously contended in any quarter that this wholesale destruction, effected often in the most revolting and heartless manner, is capable of excuse or justification, yet the efforts of those who address themselves to the better feelings of the offenders appear to meet with little or no success.

The cause of this failure must undoubtedly be sought in the general lack of any clear conviction that animals have rights, and the evil will never be thoroughly remedied until not only this particular abuse, but all such abuses, and the prime source from which such abuses originate, have been subjected to an impartial criticism.

In saying this I do not, of course, mean to imply that special efforts should not be directed against special cruelties.

I have already remarked that the main responsibility for the daily murders which fashionable millinery is instigating must lie at the door of those who demand, rather than those who supply, these hideous and funereal ornaments.

Unfortunately, the process, like that of slaughtering cattle, is throughout delegated to other hands than those of the ultimate purchaser, so that it is exceedingly difficult to bring home a due sense of blood-guiltiness to the right person.

Let every woman who claims to be more than a mere skeleton upon which fine apparel is hung, every woman who believes she has a heart and a mind, pause and consider the enormity of the crime against the feathered creatures of earth which fashionable millinery wages. And let her resolve to use her feminine ingenuity and taste in creating hats and bonnets for her own use which do not require the corpses of or feathers of dead birds to make them beautiful.

Plan Kind Deeds with Dead Birds on Their Hats

There is no more grotesque sight to behold than a woman's club luncheon, where women wearing every manner of bird decoration on their heads meet together to discuss the best ways of bringing kindness into the world and lessening cruelty.

Besides the cruel aspect of this question (subject, rather, since it is no question), there is the appalling FACT that the decrease of birds means the increase of insects and moths, and the consequent destruction of fruits, grains, vegetables and trees.

From an industrial, as well as a humane, point of view, women should organize a no-bird millinery movement.

Beautiful creations in headgear are fashioned out of ribbons, lace, ferns, flowers and jet.

Analyzed, the idea of carrying a dead bird, or anything which means the destruction of life, on the head, is monstrous, inartistic and senseless.

The wearing of furs can be defended by the argument that wild animals would soon own the earth if not destroyed, and that human beings need their skins to keep them from the cold.

But no such argument can be offered in excuse by the women who cause birds to be slaughtered by the millions for their use in head decorations.

Tell your milliner, dear lady, to fashion you the most exquisite hat possible out of nature's and art's inanimate articles.

Suggest ideas to her, and endeavor to produce something which shall be so beautiful it puts to shame the miniature butcher shops which other women sport.

Try to Persuade Every Woman to Aid the Cause

Talk this subject to your friends and to your enemies, and make it familiar to the minds of all women.

Refuse to belong to a club that does not consider this question one of importance to the progress of woman.

Make the women who attend your church ashamed of wearing dead birds. Refuse to believe in their religion until they cease to aid the cause of Murderous Millinery.

The Ol' Clo' Man

By JACOB J. LEIBSON

THE violets in woody dell
A merry message bring;
The crocus and arbutus tell
The advent of the Spring,
While in the city's caravan
There blossoms forth the ol' clo' man.

What tho' the verdant hills repeat
The blackbird's whistled note,
Or meadow rings with carol sweet
From early robin's throat,
The ol' clo' man upon his round
For me has notes of sweeter sound.

From far the breezes bring his tale
And anxiously I wait
To hear this welcome nightingale
Come warbling at my gate.
He lingers for a while, then goes,
And I have cash, and he has clo'es.

But ere Spring is on the wane
My cash has taken wing.
The ol' clo' man is here again,
And as I hear him sing,
The song that once with joy I heard
Is now the song of mockingbird.
